American Policy Making Welfare As Ritual:

American Policy Making William M. Epstein, 2002 American Policy Making will surely create controversy by challenging the prevailing ethos of humanitarianism Epstein points to the perils of unrestricted subjectivity the corruption of both social science and social discourse and argues for a more disciplined approach to policy making This is a uniquely unsentimental analysis of American social policy making with great scope and depth particularly in the personal social services philosophic and historical dimensions It is also a bold call to action to create more effective policies for social welfare

The Therapy Industry Paul Moloney, 2013-06-07 Across the world anxiety stress and depression are on the increase a trend which looks set to continue as austerity measures bite The official response tells people that unhappiness is just a personal problem rather than a social one Written by a practising psychologist with nearly thirty years experience in the fields of mental health and learning disabilities The Therapy Industry offers a concise accessible and critical overview of the world of psychological practice in Britain and the USA Paul Moloney argues that much therapy is geared towards compliance and acceptance of the status quo rather than attempting to facilitate social change The Therapy Industry fundamentally challenges our conceptions of happiness and wellbeing Moloney argues that therapeutic and applied psychology have little basis in science that their benefits are highly exaggerated and they prosper because they serve the interests of power

Journal of Economic Literature, 2002 Empowerment as Ceremony William Epstein, 2017-07-28 Many people in the United States are poor lead marginal lives and need jobs as well as basic services such as education medical care and housing Multitudes in other parts of the world in addition to being poor are jailed tortured and killed for being members of the wrong ethnic group or expressing political opinions Those who argue for empowerment claim it is a magic bullet It can liberate the oppressed largely through self organization self motivation self invention and even self clarity William M Epstein sees contemporary empowerment practice in the United States as a civic church of national values one better in performing its ceremonial role than god based houses of worship By itself empowerment is not worth the effort of commentary since it achieves none of its goals and has not even generated a respectable critical literature But Epstein argues that empowerment practice and American social welfare both embody prescriptive cultural preferences Like art and music empowerment opens windows into deeper social meaning The social sciences have carved out roles for themselves by looking for simple remedies ones that are inexpensive and compatible with contemporary social arrangements Epstein shows that those in social work practices have not only deluded themselves into thinking that these services have real instrumental value but really operate at cross purposes This accessible work will attract critical attention among these professional groups It bases its carefully documented insights upon informed sociological and anthropological theory

Psychotherapy, American Culture, and Social Policy E. Throop, 2009-01-05 A lively indictment of American culture s pervasive use of the psychotherapeutic metaphor to explain behaviours a habit that has crossed the Atlantic in recent years arguing that psychotherapy and excessive individualism has only ensured the continuance of social problems

Mental Disorders in the Social Environment Stuart Kirk, 2004-09-05 Social workers provide more mental health services than any other profession yet recent biomedical trends in psychiatry appear to minimize the importance of their traditional concerns which focus on the social environment that accompanies mental disorders and their treatment This book calls attention to this emerging problem and challenges social workers and other health care professionals to be more skeptical about diagnosis community treatment evidence based practice psychotherapy medications and managed care
