After the Crossing Howard Johnson, 1990 EBOOK: Women in Later Life: Exploring Race and Ethnicity Haleh Afshar, Myfanwy Franks, Mary Ann Maynard, Sharon Wray, 2008-05-16 The authors argue that much of the research into later life has neglected ethnic and cultural variation Their aim is to help us to understand what is important in older women's lives across a range of ethnic groups They have certainly achieved this in what is a readable and detailed analysis of their findings Highly recommended Nursing Standard the first book to comprehensively examine the lives of older women from ethnic minorities in the UK as well as non migrant White women The authors draw on extensive qualitative research to provide novel ways of looking at the priorities and concerns of older women providing insights into what enhances their quality of life Mary Maynard and colleagues have written an outstanding book Women in Later Life will be essential reading for students on undergraduate and postgraduate courses on gender ethnicity and later life Sara Arber University of Surrey what is it like to be an older person and particularly an older woman This carefully crafted and wide ranging book seeks to answer this question The book reminds us that age is a social construct one which profoundly disadvantages women For minority ethnic women where this book makes an important contribution to a largely unexplored territory the situation is even more dire The authors have opened up a huge area of policy demonstrating despite the rhetoric of government how badly we treat our elders Professor Gary Craig University of Hull Britain along with other Western and industrialized countries has an ageing population We already live in one of the demographically oldest societies to have ever existed and the population is going to get older By 2020 it is estimated that one third of the population will be aged over 50 Furthermore older women outnumber older men since men tend to die at a younger age than women In the academic mainstream relatively little is known about older women from minority ethnic communities This groundbreaking book is based on interviews and focus groups with women of different backgrounds and ethnicities whose lives illustrate the strength of character and optimism that have often enabled them to live through hard times but who in general view later life positively In seeking to understand the relationships between age gender and ethnicity the authors focus on a number of key themes including Family and networks Health and well being Religion faith and spirituality Income pensions and housing The meaning of identity and life course events Death and dying Women in Later Life will be key reading for students and practitioners with an interest in gender and or issues surrounding later life After the Crossing Howard Johnson, 1988 First Published in 1990 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company KS3 History Depth Study: Migration Nation eBook Second Edition Aaron Wilkes, 2023-10-19 Explore some of the many perspectives and experiences of migration to the UK with accessible case studies on Jewish Irish Caribbean South Asian and Eastern European migration These case studies along with overarching questions will stimulate discussion and help students understand how what has happened in the past continues to have impact and shape the relationships that Britain has with the world today Written by Aaron Wilkes in consultation with expert

Afro-Caribbean Immigrants and the Politics of Incorporation Reuel R. Rogers, 2006-04-24 This book examines the political behavior of Afro Caribbean immigrants in New York City to answer a familiar but nagging question about American democracy: Does racism still complicate or limit the political integration patterns of racial minorities in the United States? With the arrival of unprecedented numbers of immigrants from Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean over the last several decades, there is reason once again to consider this question. The country is confronting the challenge of incorporating a steady, substantial stream of non-white, non-European voluntary immigrants into the political system. Will racism make this process as difficult for these newcomers as it did for African Americans? The book concludes that discrimination does interfere with the immigrants' adjustment to American political life. But their political options and strategic choices in the face of this challenge are unexpected ones not anticipated by standard accounts in the political science literature.

In Search of a Better Life Ransford Palmer, 1990-05-21 This volume examines the phenomenon of mass population migration from the Caribbean to North America and the United Kingdom and the social, cultural and economic adaptation of the immigrants to their new environments. A central theme of this volume is that twentieth century Caribbean migration is more than the migration of labor in search of jobs; it is also a movement of households and thus affects not only the well-being of family members but also their social relationships. The contributors provide new analytical perspectives on the factors that motivate this movement and the social, cultural and economic impact of the movement on the household itself. The volume is divided into three parts. Part I examines the historical movement to the United States and the United Kingdom. The chapters in this section explore the relationship between the character of Caribbean development and the factors motivating the migration of households. The nineteenth century beginnings of twentieth century mass Caribbean migration and the social and economic experiences of the post-World War II Caribbean immigrants in Britain. Part II looks at the problems of settlement and adaptation in the major urban centers where Caribbean immigrants have tended to concentrate, giving special attention to the status of Caribbean women in the United States and the role of social networks in helping immigrants to adapt to their new surroundings. The final section looks at the problem of illegal migration from the Caribbean to the United States, drawing on data from the annual reports of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Students, researchers and policy makers will find In Search of a Better Life an important contribution to the understanding of the total migration process.

Creolizing the Metropole H. Adlai Murdoch,2012-06-08 A study of how Caribbean immigrants to France and the UK from 1948 1998 and their descendants portray their metropolitan identities in literature and film Creolizing the Metropole is a comparative study of postwar West Indian migration to the former colonial capitals of Paris and London It studies the effects of this population shift on national and cultural identity and traces the postcolonial Caribbean experience through analyses of the concepts of identity and diaspora Through close readings of selected literary works and film H Adlai Murdoch explores the ways in which these immigrants and their descendants represented their metropolitan identities Though British immigrants were colonial subjects and later residents of British Commonwealth nations and the French arrivals from the overseas departments were citizens of France by law both groups became subject to otherness and exclusion stemming from their ethnicities Murdoch examines this phenomenon and the questions it raises about borders and boundaries nationality and belonging An outstanding contribution to scholarship Theoretically grounded and meticulously researched it examines the complexities inherent in constructing new diaspora identities that are at once ethnic national and fluid Ren e Larrier Rutgers University In these expansive fresh adroit interpretations of Maryse Condé Gis le Pineau Zadie Smith White and Andrea Levy the author exposes the stark reality that race and the prejudices attached to it is a barrier to unequivocal assimilation This study affirms that a diasporic duality persists as creolization slowly alters the metropole Overall an interesting read Choice This book provides an extremely valuable contribution to the fields of postcolonial studies and European literary and film studies in at least three ways it theoretically refines the concept of creolization it contributes to much needed redefinitions of France and the United Kingdom as multicultural and it foregrounds the aesthetic qualities of the works under study Research in African Literatures Black Like Them? Reuel Reuben Rogers, Research Institute for the Study of Man, 1999
