The protocol for dental trauma involves all of the following, except

- a. Ideally, the tooth should be repositioned to its original position.
- b. EPT and thermal testing are unreliable following trauma since physical trauma can severe or damage nerve supply without altering pulpal blood supply/vitality.
- c. If the root is completely formed on a tooth that has been intruded, a pulpectomy should be performed within 1-3 weeks after the injury.
- d. The tooth should be splinted for 2 to 4 months if it sustains a root fracture - correct answer ✓d. The tooth should be splinted for 2 to 4 months if it sustains a root fracture

When evaluating horizontal root fractures, one should consider all as being true, except:

- A. Chances of coronal root fractures healing are similar to mid-root or apical fractures if the fracture is below the height of crestal bone and properly splinted
- B. If the fracture is at or coronal to the crest of the alveolar bone, the prognosis is still favorable
- C. Pulpal necrosis occurs in 25% of root fractures
- D. In the vast majority of cases, necrosis occurs in the coronal segment only with the apical segment remaining vital - correct answer ✓B. If the fracture is at or coronal to the crest of the alveolar bone, the prognosis is still favorable

How long should horizontal root fractures be splinted if the coronal section was displaced and repositioned?

Challenges and Opportunities in Orchid Ecology and Conservation Pavel Kindlmann,Tiiu Kull,Dennis Whigham,2023-08-02 Understanding diversity patterns and the effect of global change on abundance distribution patterns and species survival are of the most discussed topics in biodiversity research Species are disappearing worldwide mostly due to habitat loss but other factors like climate change are likely to increase in importance during the 21st century Thus one of the most worrying issues is that we still do not know the optimal abiotic and biotic requirements for population persistence of many of the still existing species which makes it very difficult if not impossible to make appropriate recommendations for their conservation in terms of proposing an effective management of their sites Analysis of these requirements is however strongly dependent on the taxonomic group considered and on life history strategies of the species that comprise the group In this Research Topic we concentrate on this issue applied to orchids one of the most abundant groups of flowering plants with approximately 30 000 species They are classified among the most threatened groups worldwide Of the approximately

1000 species that have been evaluated almost 60% are threatened endangered or extinct For a few orchid species detailed records from monitoring efforts provide opportunities for comparative analyses of species declines through time However for most orchid species we still lack population data and there have been few studies that have focused on the environmental factors and species traits associated with the decline of orchid sites and species numbers Behavior & Society ,1988
