Transformative Practices for Minority Student Success Dina C. Maramba, Timothy P. Fong, 2023-07-03 Between 2000 and 2015 the Asian American Pacific Islander population grew from nearly 12 million to over 20 million at 72% percent recording the fastest growth rate of any major ethnic and racial group in the US This book the first to focus wholly on Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Institutions AANAPISIs and their students offers a corrective to misconceptions about these populations and documents student services and leadership programs innovative pedagogies models of community engagement and collaborations across academic and student affairs that have transformed student outcomes The contributors stress the importance of disaggregating this population that is composed of over 40 ethnic groups that vary in immigrant histories languages religion educational attainment levels and socioeconomic status This book recognizes there is a large population of underserved Asian American and Pacific Islander college students who given their educational disparities are in severe need of attention The contributors describe effective practices that enable instructors to validate the array of students specific backgrounds and circumstances within the contexts of developing such skills as writing leadership and cross cultural communication for their class cohorts as a whole They demonstrate that paying attention to the diversity of student experiences in the teaching environment enriches the learning for all The timeliness of this volume is important because of the keen interest across the nation for creating equitable environments for our increasingly diverse students This book serves as an important resource for predominantly white institutions who are admitting greater numbers of API and other underrepresented students It also offers models for other minority serving institutions who face similar complexities of multiple national or ethnic groups within their populations provides ideas and inspiration for the AANAPISI community and guidance for institutions considering applying for AANAPISI status and funding This book is for higher education administrators faculty researchers student affairs practitioners who can learn from AANAPISIs how to successfully engage and teach students with widely differing cultural backgrounds and educational circumstances

Democratic Dilemmas of Teaching Service-Learning Christine M. Cress, David M. Donahue, 2023-07-03 A college student wants to lead a campaign to ban a young adult novel from his child's elementary school as his service learning project in a children's literature course Believing the book is offensive to religious sensibilities he sees his campaign as a service to children and the community Viewing such a ban as limiting freedom of speech and access to information the student's professor questions whether leading a ban qualifies as a service project If the goal of service is to promote more vital democratic communities what should the student do What should the professor do How do they untangle competing democratic values How do they make a decision about action This book addresses the teaching dilemmas such as the above that instructors and students encounter in service learning courses Recognizing that teaching in general and service learning in particular are inherently political this book faces up to the resulting predicaments that inevitably arise in the classroom By framing them as a vital and productive part of the process of teaching and learning for political engagement this book offers the reader new ways to think about and address seemingly intractable ideological issues Faculty encounter many challenges when teaching service learning courses These may arise from students' resistance to the idea of serving their lack of responsibility wasting clients and community agencies time and money the misalignment of community partner expectations with academic goals or faculty uncertainty about when to guide students' experiences and when direct intervention is necessary In over twenty chapters of case studies faculty scholars from disciplines as varied as computer science engineering English history and sociology take readers on their and their students' intellectual journeys sharing their messy unpredictable and often inspiring accounts of democratic tensions and trials inherent in teaching service learning Using real incidents and describing the resources and classroom activities they employ they explore the democratic intersections of various political beliefs along with race ethnicity class gender ability sexual orientation and other lived differences and likenesses that students and faculty experience in their service learning classroom and extended community They share their struggles of how to communicate and interact across the divide of viewpoints and experiences within an egalitarian and inclusive environment all the while managing interpersonal tensions and conflicts among diverse people in complex value-laden situations The experienced contributors to this book offer pedagogical strategies for constructing service learning courses and non-prescriptive approaches to dilemmas for which there can be no definitive solutions

The Double Bind in Physics Education Maria

Ong,2023-05-09 An incisive study of the mechanisms reinforcing the underrepresentation of women of color in STEM fields and a call for systemic change to address the imbalance In a detailed exploration of inclusion in physics social scientist Maria Ong makes the case for far reaching higher education reform noting that despite diversity efforts to recruit more women and students of color into science and mathematics programs many leave the STEM pipeline The Double Bind in Physics Education takes readers inside the issue by following 10 women of color from their entrance into the undergraduate physics program at a large research university through their pursuit of various educational and career paths Candid interviews with these women their instructors and mentors and their peers conducted over 25 years allow Ong to trace how pervasive challenges such as navigating the intersectionality of race and gender discrimination have shaped their academic opportunities and career choices Despite the ideals of objectivity promoted in STEM disciplines the women profiled here encounter continued patterns of systemic oppression within their departments In their stories Ong identifies overt behaviors and microaggressions that harass exclude and otherwise disadvantage women of color and members of other minoritized groups Ong also shows how aids such as student support programs peer groups allies and mentors which are centered on the individual can go only so far toward a sustainable solution In order to provide equitable opportunities she argues greater work must be done to dismantle institutional norms and replace them with a culture of inclusion College Students in
