Handbook on Teaching Empirical Software Engineering Daniel Mendez,Paris Avgeriou,Marcos Kalinowski,Nauman Bin Ali,2024-12-24 This handbook exploits the profound experience and expertise of well established scholars in the empirical software engineering community to provide guidance and support in teaching various research methods and fundamental concepts A particular focus is thus on combining research methods and their epistemological settings and terminology with didactics and pedagogy for the subject The book covers the most essential contemporary research methods and philosophical and cross cutting concerns in software engineering research considering both academic and industrial settings at the same time providing insights into the effective teaching of concepts and strategies To this end the book is organized into four major parts In the first part the editors set the foundation with two chapters one laying out the larger context of the discipline for a positioning of the remainder of this book and one guiding the creation of a syllabus for courses in empirical software engineering The second part of the book lays the fundamentals for teaching empirical software engineering addressing more cross cutting aspects from theorizing and teaching research designs to measurement and quantitative data analysis In the third part general experiences and personal reflections from teaching empirical software engineering in different settings are shared Finally the fourth part contains a number of carefully selected research methods presented through an educational lens Next to the chapter contributions themselves that provide a more theoretical perspective and practical advice readers will find additional material in the form of for example slide sets and tools in an online material section The book mainly targets three different audiences 1 educators teaching empirical software engineering to undergraduate postgraduate or doctoral students 2 professional trainers teaching the basic concepts of empirical software engineering to software professionals and 3 students and trainees attending such courses

Designing Physical Interaction Platforms Maximilian Perez Mengual,2023-10-12 Physical interaction platforms PIPs such as living labs innovation labs or co working spaces serve as environments for ideas experiments and collaborative innovation They play a key role in value creation by orchestrating ecosystem actors and facilitating interaction e g the exchange of goods services or social currency such as information This book explores how PIPs can be systematically designed It adopts a platform perspective focusing on value creation for manifold actors as a fundamental element for the sustainable operation of a platform Well established insights from the design of digital platforms are taken as a foundation and adapted to the physical world This analysis is compiled of 4 major studies structured along the lifecycle of a PIP The first study explores design dimensions of PIPs as a basis for a design process The second study explores the design process of a PIP itself The third study explores sustainable innovation of PIP during later stages of their lifecycle The fourth study applies the findings and models from studies 1 3 in a PIP design process and evaluates them This book addresses both scholars and practitioners alike The models and the knowledge generated contribute to the scholarly understanding of spaces for innovation and value creation while enabling designers to create sustainably successful and engaging PIPs

Participatory Action Research Jacques M. Chevalier,Daniel J. Buckles,2013-03-05 This book addresses a key issue in higher learning university education and scientific research the widespread difficulty researchers experts and students from all disciplines face when trying to contribute to change in complex social settings characterized by uncertainty and the unknown More than ever researchers need flexible means and grounded theory to combine people based and evidence based inquiry into challenging situations that keep evolving and do not lend themselves to straightforward technical explanations and solutions

In this book the authors propose innovative strategies for engaged inquiry building on insights from many disciplines and lessons from the history of Participatory Action Research PAR including French psychosociology The ongoing evolution of PAR has had a lasting legacy in fields ranging from community development to education public engagement natural resource management and problem solving in the workplace All formulations have in common the idea that research must be done with people and not on or for people Inquiry of this kind makes sense of the world through efforts to transform it as opposed to simply observing and studying human behaviour and people's views about reality in the hope that meaningful change will happen somewhere down the road The book contributes many new tools and conceptual foundations to this longstanding tradition grounded in real life examples of collective fact finding analysis and decision making from around the world It provides a modular textbook on participatory action research and related methods theory and practice suitable for a wide range of undergraduate and postgraduate courses as well as working professionals
