Revealing Rebellion in Abiyala Hannah Burdette, 2019-04-09

From the rise of the Pan Maya Movement in Guatemala and the Zapatista uprising in Mexico to the Water and Gas Wars in Bolivia and the Idle No More movement in Canada the turn of the twenty first century has witnessed a notable surge in Indigenous political action as well as an outpouring of texts produced by Native authors and poets Throughout the Americas Abiyala or the Land of Plenitude and Maturity in the Guna language of Panama Indigenous people are raising their voices and reclaiming the right to represent themselves in politics as well as in creative writing Revealing Rebellion in Abiyala explores the intersections between Indigenous literature and social movements over the past thirty years through the lens of insurgent poetics Author Hannah Burdette is interested in how Indigenous literature and social movements are intertwined and why these phenomena arise almost simultaneously in disparate contexts across the Americas Literature constitutes a key weapon in political struggles as it provides a means to render subjugated knowledge visible and to envision alternatives to modernity and coloniality The surge in Indigenous literature and social movements is arguably one of the most significant occurrences of the twenty first century and yet it remains understudied Revealing Rebellion in Abiyala bridges that gap by using the concept of Abiyala as a powerful starting point for rethinking inter American studies through the lens of Indigenous sovereignty

Furlan,2017-11 In Indigenous Cities Laura M Furlan demonstrates that stories of the urban experience are essential to an understanding of modern Indigeneity She situates Native identity among theories of diaspora cosmopolitanism and transnationalism by examining urban narratives such as those written by Sherman Alexie Janet Campbell Hale Louise Erdrich and Susan Power along with the work of filmmakers and artists In these stories Native peoples navigate new surroundings find and reformulate community and maintain and redefine Indian identity in the postrelocation era These narratives illuminate the changing relationship between urban Indigenous peoples and their tribal nations and territories and the ways in which new cosmopolitan bonds both reshape and are interpreted by tribal identities Though the majority of American Indigenous populations do not reside on reservations these spaces regularly define discussions and literature about Native citizenship and identity Meanwhile conversations about the shift to urban settings often focus on elements of dispossession subjectivity and assimilation Furlan takes a critical look at Indigenous fiction from the last three decades to present a new way of looking at urban experiences one that explains mobility and relocation as a form of resistance In these stories Indian bodies are not bound by state imposed borders or confined to Indian Country as it is traditionally conceived Furlan demonstrates that cities have always been Indian land and Indigenous peoples have always been cosmopolitan and urban Similes, Puns and Counterfactuals in Literary Narrative Jennifer Riddle Harding, 2017-04-21 In this study Jennifer Riddle Harding presents a cognitive analysis of three figures of speech that have readily identifiable forms similes puns and counterfactuals Harding argues that when deployed in literary narrative these forms have narrative functions such as the depiction of conscious experiences allegorical meanings and alternative plots uniquely developed by these more visible figures of speech Metaphors by contrast are often invisible in the formal structure of a text With a solid cognitive grounding Harding s approach emphasizes the relationship between figurative forms and narrative effects Harding demonstrates the literary functions of previously neglected figures of speech and the potential for a unified approach to a topic that crosses cognitive disciplines Her work has implications for the rhetorical approach to figures of speech for cognitive disciplines and for the studies of literature rhetoric and narrative
