areas of victimhood and rhetoric points to the ambiguous manner in which language and images thread their way into the critical discourses of today and even devise a vicious reversal of the victimized victimizer positions Although we ask can the victim s real ever be fully represented we keep holding on the simple assurance that only an attempt at representation of the real in an actual performance can bring us closer to the victimizing event make us grasp its other contested constructions and foresee the materiality of the effects of its linguistic implications We try to suggest a comparative approach that would link different experiences of victimization possibly enabling a cognitive exchange and emphasize the necessity of raising the writers and readers awareness of the narrative consequences of victimizing processes and the policies following on from them

Women and Power in Parliamentary Democracies Rebecca Howard Davis, 1997-01-01 Margaret Thatcher Mary Robinson Gro Harlem Brundtland Edith Cresson and Simone Veil these contemporary world leaders are as noteworthy for their gender as they are for the political directions they have provided Indeed female government leaders are so rare as to be almost an intellectual curiosity Why is this the case Why do women who make up more than half of the world's population occupy so few positions at the highest levels of political power Why are women making inroads in government in some countries while not in others And what difference does women's presence or absence make in terms of policy outcomes Davis addresses these questions by examining women's access to power through appointive channels in Western European parliamentary and parliamentary type systems Tracing women's participation from 1968 to 1992 in fifteen countries she accounts for the variation from high levels of women's representation in Norway and Sweden to low levels in Italy and Britain Little research on women and elections extends beyond the United States and Britain Even less exists on women's access to power through appointive channels By comparatively examining the elite recruitment of women through appointments this work fills a critical gap film fiction and memoir this book combines an analysis of care narratives to inform and inspire ideas about this major role in life. Alongside analysis of narratives drawn from literature and film, the author sensitively interweaves the story of his wife's illness and care to illuminate perspectives on dealing with human decline. Examining texts from a diverse range of authors such as Leo Tolstoy, Edith Wharton, and Alice Munro, and filmmakers such as Ingmar Bergman and Michael Haneke, it addresses questions such as why caregiving is a dangerous activity, the ethical problems of writing about caregiving, the challenges of reading about caregiving, and why caregiving is so important. It serves as a fire starter on the subject of how we can gain insight into the challenges and opportunities of caregiving through the creative arts.

Beyond the Five Paragraph Essay Kimberly Campbell, Kristi Latimer, 2023-10-10. Love it or hate it, the five paragraph essay is perhaps the most frequently taught form of writing in classrooms of yesterday and today. But have you ever actually seen five paragraph essays outside of school walls? Have you ever found it in business writing, journalism, nonfiction, or any other genres that exist in the real world? Kimberly Hill Campbell and Kristi Latimer reviewed the research on the effectiveness of the form as a teaching tool and discovered that the research does not support the five paragraph formula. In fact, research shows that the formula restricts creativity, emphasizes structure rather than content, does not improve standardized test scores, inadequately prepares students for college writing, and results in vapid writing. In Beyond
