A History Of The Garden In Fifty Tools:

A History of the Garden in Fifty Tools Bill Laws, 2014-06-19 A green thumb is not the only tool one needs to garden well at least that's what the makers of gardening catalogs and the designers of the dizzying aisle displays in lawn and garden stores would have us believe. Need to plant a bulb, aerate some soil, or keep out a hungry critter? Well, there's a specific tool for almost everything. But this isn't just a product of today's consumer era since the very earliest gardens people have been developing tools to make planting and harvesting more efficient and to make flora more beautiful and trees more fruitful. In A History of the Garden in Fifty Tools, Bill Laws offers entertaining and colorful anecdotes of implements that have shaped our gardening experience since the beginning. As Laws reveals, gardening tools have coevolved with human society and the story of these fifty individual tools presents an innovative history of humans and the garden over time. Laws takes us back to the Neolithic age when the microlith, the first all-in-one tool, was invented. Consisting of a small sharp stone blade that was set into a handle made of wood, bone, or antler, it was a small spade that could be used to dig, clip, and cut plant material. We find out that wheelbarrows originated in China in the second century BC and their basic form has not changed much since. He also describes how early images of a pruning knife appear in Roman art in the form of a scythe that could cut through herbs, vegetables, fruits, and nuts and was believed to be able to tell the gardener when and what to harvest. Organized into five thematic chapters relating to different types of gardens: the flower garden, the kitchen garden, the orchard, the lawn, and ornamental gardens, the book includes a mix of horticulture and history. In addition to stories featuring well-known characters, we learn about Henry David Thoreau's favorite hoe. For example, A History of the Garden in Fifty Tools will be a beautiful gift for any home gardener and a reassuring reminder that gardeners have always struggled with the same quandaries.

The History of the Garden in Fifty Tools Bill Laws, 2014 Every tool has a tale to tell. The garden shed shelters some improbable stories from the Mayan and Mediterranean clay pot makers to the tale of the tailor trimming the uniforms of English Redcoats who invented the lawn mower from the manic evolution of the seventeenth-century Dutch bulb planter to the plant container that created a movable orchard at Versailles from the back story of Henry David Thoreau's favorite hoe to Gertrude Jekyll's homemade daisy digger. A History of the Garden in Fifty Tools is a historical horticultural journey told through fifty pieces of garden gear which also provides some useful and curious insights into their care and preservation.

The Maryland Master Gardener Handbook University of Maryland Extension - Master Gardener Program, 2025-04-15 This reference details plant terminology, gardening instructions, growing schedules, and species charts featuring color photographs for gardeners in Maryland. Common Measures Joseph Albernaz, 2024-08-20 What happens to the experience of community when the grounds of communal life collapse? The Romantic period's upheaval cast both traditional communal organizations of life and outgrowths of the new revolutionary age.

into crisis In this context Joseph Albernaz argues that Romantic writers articulate a vital conception of groundless community while following this idea through its aesthetic ecological political and philosophical registers into the present Amidst the violent expropriation of the commons Romantic writers including the Wordsworths Clare Hlderlin and the revolutionary abolitionist Robert Wedderburn reimagined the forms of their own lives through literature to conceive community as groundless a disposition toward radically open forms of sharing including with nonhuman beings without recourse to any collective identity Both a poetics and ethics groundless community names an everyday sociality that surges beneath and against the enclosures of property and identity binding us to the movements of the earth Unearthing Romanticism s intersections with the history of communism and the general strike Albernaz also demonstrates how Romantic literature s communal imagination reverberates through later theories of community in Bataille Derrida Nancy Moten and others With sharp close readings new historical constellations and innovative theoretical paradigms Common Measures recasts the relationship of the Romantic period to the basic terms of modernity

A History of Gardening in 50 Objects George Drower,2019-07-04 The earliest record of an enclosed space around a homestead come from 10 000 BC and since then gardens of varying types and ambition have been popular throughout the ages Whether ornamental patches surrounding wild cottages container gardens blooming over unforgiving concrete or those turned over for growing produce gardens exist in all shapes and sizes in all manner of styles Today we benefit from centuries of development be it in the cultivation of desirable blossom or larger fruits in the technology to keep weeds and lawn at bay or even in the visionaries who tore up rulebooks and cultivated pure creativity in their green spaces George Drower takes fifty objects that have helped create the gardening scene we know today and explores the history outside spaces in a truly unique fashion With stunning botanical and archive images this lavish volume is essential for garden lovers

Papua New Guinea is the last country in the world where ethnologists were able to closely observe and photograph the whole manufacturing chain of polished stone felling tools from quarry extraction to finished tool use Research on the polished blades of PNG has evolved over the years following changing philosophies and research agendas While it is clear that an exceptional sum of information has been gathered it remains centered on that small part of the Highlands where conditions for field research were more pleasant than elsewhere This presentation of Irian Jaya axes therefore tackles a topic that remains mostly unexplored Until now stone tool research in New Guinea has followed an anthropocentric approach in which tools are seen more as vectors for social exchanges than as means of acting on the environment This monograph takes a different approach Here polished stone blades are placed at the center of the world between on one side the transformed natural environment and on the other the social and economic environment This approach allows for a suggestion of new avenues of inference in archaeology as well as to test and abandon existing ones In this volume the stone blade is considered as a living being existing in balance within its biotope This idea is not far removed from the beliefs of Irian Jaya farmers for whom life animates certain objects of their material culture Following a brief presentation of Irian Jaya the function of polished stone blades in Irian Jaya societies and the distribution of hafting styles is described defined and studied along with the quarrying zones and the areas of diffusion and use of their production The different trends in each area of polished blade production and exchanges are also noted Finally it concludes with a discussion of the ethnoarchaeological potential of these contemporary observations
