A History Of Environmentalism Local Struggles Global Histories:

A History of Environmentalism Marco Armiero, Lise Sedrez, 2014 This book brings together a collection of highly respected contributors to provide a global history of environmentalism It makes the basic assumption that we can better understand the relationship that exists between man and nature through the close observation of conflicts that have taken place between the two Using a range of case studies A History of Environmentalism Local Struggles Global Histories weaves together an intricate fabric of environmental struggles throughout history that tells us much about transformations of cultural perceptions and ways of production and consuming as well as ecological and social changes Although the narratives included in the book are strongly rooted in specific places including Brazil Italy the USA and Australia they suggest and reveal things about environmental issues in history on a world scale This book will enable students to understand the history of environmentalism from a global and local perspective simultaneously

A History of Environmentalism Marco Armiero, Lise Sedrez, 2014-07-31 Think globally act locally has become a call to environmentalist mobilization proposing a closer connection between global concerns local issues and individual responsibility A History of Environmentalism explores this dialectic relationship with ten contributors from a range of disciplines providing a history of environmentalism which frames global themes and narrates local stories Each of the chapters in this volume addresses specific struggles in the history of environmental movements for example over national parks species protection forests waste contamination nuclear energy and expropriation A diverse range of environments and environmental actors are covered including the communities in the Amazonian Forest the antelope in Tibet atomic power plants in Europe and oil and politics in the Niger Delta The chapters demonstrate how these conflicts make visible the intricate connections between local and global the body and the environment and power and nature A History of Environmentalism tells us much about transformations of cultural perceptions and ways of production and consuming as well as ecological and social changes More than offering an exhaustive picture of the entire environmentalist movement A History of Environmentalism highlights the importance of the experience of environmentalism within local communities It offers a worldwide and polyphonic perspective making it key reading for students and scholars of global and environmental history and political ecology

Disturbed Ecologies Darcy White, Julia Peck, Chris Goldie, 2023-03-03 The imaginaries of northern landscape have not remained static in the era of ecological crisis but play a pivotal function within the geopolitics of visual representation Such imaginaries can sanction those dominant discourses that frame environmental catastrophe as the consequence of undifferentiated human activity but it is argued they also have the capacity to represent a complexity and heterogeneity frequently absent from this broad discursive field The contributors to this volume engage with the practice curation and utilization of photography and other lens based media to examine the critical role of visual culture in shaping and interrogating conceptions of environmental catastrophe

Methodological Challenges in Nature-Culture and Environmental History Research Jocelyn Thorpe, Stephanie

Rutherford, L. Anders Sandberg, 2016-11-10 This book examines the challenges and possibilities of conducting cultural environmental history research today. Disciplinary commitments certainly influence the questions scholars ask and the ways they seek out answers but some methodological challenges go beyond the boundaries of any one discipline. The book examines how to account for the fact that humans are not the only actors in history yet dominate archival records; how to attend to the non visual senses when traditional sources offer only a two dimensional non sensory version of the past; how to decolonize research in and beyond the archives; and how effectively to use sources and means of communication made available in the digital age. This book will be a valuable resource for those interested in environmental history and politics, sustainable development and historical geography.

Edward Thomas's Prose Ralph Pite, 2025-10-02 Edward Thomas 1878-1917 is a renowned poet. Until recently his prose writing has by comparison been neglected and very often dismissed by critics. Thanks not least to the multi volume new edition being published by OUP gen eds Guy Cuthbertson and Lucy Newlyn this body of work is being re evaluated. This new study by Ralph Pite forms part of that undertaking; it is the first to consider Thomas's prose on its own terms independently of the poetry that it preceded. By considering all of Thomas's prose work in its wide variety of genres: nature writing, literary criticism, fiction, autobiography and by drawing for the first time on the whole range of his reviewing this study transforms understanding of his development. The continuity of his critical perspective emerges; his Celtic loyalties, their nature and their depth are revealed; both the complexity and the conviction of his politics are brought to light alongside his receptive alertness to innovative writing and his own originality and daring as a writer. The view of his achievement generated by his interwar reception itself, the outcome of societal mourning and griefwork is challenged so is the critical consensus regarding the quality of his prose and the reasons behind its changing styles across Thomas's career. From all of this it becomes clear, moreover, how powerfully Thomas's work speaks in the contemporary moment of environmental and climate breakdown. Thomas's prose seeks constantly to articulate a relationship of absolute interdependence between human beings and the natural world. His writing is so exploratory and original because Thomas seeks to address the problematic reality that interdependence: this truth of humanity's place in natural world is perceptible to Western eyes only as mystery.

A Liberation for the Earth A.M. Ranawana, 2022-11-30 In the encyclical Laodato Si Pope Francis describes the earth as the new poor, opening it up as a place in need of liberation. The fate of the poor, the marginalised and those on the wrong side of the western colonial project is inextricably tied up with the fate of the planet. In A Liberation for the Earth Anupama Ranawana explores the nexus between climate, race and the liberative potential of the cross. Reflecting on the entanglement between colonialization and the destruction of the planet she considers how this entanglement is played out and resisted within faith based and secular ecological justice movements in Canada, Sri Lanka and the United Kingdom.

Environmental History of Modern Migrations Marco Armiero, Richard Tucker, 2017-05-12 In the age of climate change the possibility that dramatic environmental transformations might cause the dislocation of millions of people has become not only a matter for scientific speculation or science fiction narratives but the object of strategic planning and military analysis. Environmental History of Modern Migrations offers a worldwide perspective on the history of migrations throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and provides an opportunity to reflect on the global ecological transformations and developments which have occurred throughout the last few centuries. With a primary focus on the environment migration nexus, this book advocates that global environmental changes are not distinct from global social transformations. Instead, it offers a progressive method of combining environmental and social history which manages to both encompass and transcend current approaches to environmental justice issues. This edited collection will be of great interest to students and practitioners of environmental history and migration studies as well as those with an interest in history and sociology.

Ruling Nature, Controlling People Luregn Lenggenhager, 2018. Recent nature conservation initiatives in Southern Africa such as communal conservancies and peace parks are often embedded in narratives of economic development and ecological research. They are also increasingly marked by militarisation and violence. In Ruling Nature Controlling People, Luregn Lenggenhager shows that these features were also characteristic of South African rule over the Caprivi Strip region in North Eastern Namibia, especially in the fields of forestry, fisheries and ultimately wildlife conservation. In the process, the increasingly internationalised war in the region from the late 1960s until Namibia's independence in 1990 became intricately interlinked with contemporary nature conservation, ecology and economic development projects. By retracing such interdependencies, Lenggenhager provides a novel perspective from which to examine the history of a region which has until now barely entered the focus of historical research. He thereby highlights the enduring relevance of the supposedly peripheral Caprivi and its military, scientific and environmental histories for efforts to develop a deeper understanding of the ways in which apartheid South Africa exerted state power.

Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire Corey Ross, 2017. Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire provides the first wide-ranging environmental history of the heyday of European imperialism from the late nineteenth century to the end of the colonial era. It focuses on the ecological dimensions of the explosive growth of tropical commodity production, global trade and modern resource management strategies that still visibly shape our world today and how they were related to broader social, cultural and political developments in Europe's colonies. Covering the overseas empires of all the major European powers, Corey Ross argues that tropical environments were not merely a stage on which conquest and subjugation took place but were an essential part of the colonial project, profoundly shaping the imperial enterprise even as they were shaped by it. The story he tells is not only about the complexities of human experience but also about people's relationship with the ecosystems in which they were themselves embedded: the soil, water, plants and animals that were likewise a part of Europe's empire. Although it shows that imperial conquest rarely represented the signal ecological trauma that some accounts suggest, it nonetheless demonstrates that modern imperialism marked a decisive and largely negative milestone for the natural environment By relating the expansion of modern empire global trade and mass consumption to the momentous ecological shifts that they entailed this book provides a historical perspective on the vital nexus of social political and environmental issues that we face in the twenty first century world The Power of the Periphery Peder Anker,2020-05-28 Examines how Norway has positioned itself as an alternative environmentally sound nation in a world filled with tension and instability

Oral History and the Environment Stephen M. Sloan,Mark Cave,2022 As uncontrolled development forces crises in the natural world deeply ingrained human connections with the earth are changing Oral history s proven ability to explore issues of race ethnicity class gender and sexuality make it a uniquely effective methodology for bringing in new perspectives to our understanding of environments This book brings together interviews with a global range of activists farmers water system managers victims of catastrophe tribal trustees wilderness rangers reindeer herders and foresters among others whose life experience gives them special insights into human environmental interaction and adaption Commentary by oral historians examines how these stories can be used to better understand our relationship with the natural world Oral History and the Environment takes what could seem broad and impersonal forces such as climate change and environmentalism and crystalizes their meaning through personal stories It overturns narrow historical frameworks bounded artificially by national borders and instead portrays the issues facing our common ecosystems Toxitaly Paolo Chirumbolo,2025-04-30 The rise of Italian ecodocumentaries represents a significant cultural response to urgent environmental issues reflecting a growing ecological awareness in contemporary Italian society Toxitaly presents comprehensive scholarly analysis of these films exploring their portrayal of key regional and national environmental events and concerns Paolo Chirumbolo discusses the impact of these documentaries on Italian culture highlighting how they depict industrial landscapes and articulate the emerging ecological consciousness The analysis is structured around four main narratives Petronarratives Steel Narratives Chemical Narratives and Waste Narratives Each ecodocumentary is examined thematically and formally with Chirumbolo employing Bill Nichols s theories on the various modes of representation in documentary film to define the relationships between subject matter filmmaker and viewer In a time of increasing public interest in environmental issues and the growth of grassroots movements Toxitaly illuminates how ecodocumentaries can shape public discourse and inspire ecological awareness both in Italy and beyond Reading Contemporary Environmental Justice R. Sreejith Varma,2023-07-14 This volume investigates 11 contemporary environmental justice narratives from Kerala the south western state in India Introducing a detailed review of environmental literature in Malayalam the selected eco narratives are presented through two key literary genres life narratives and novels conveying the socio environmental pressures problems and anxieties of modern globalising Kerala This text also entails primary investigations of toxic fictions and extractivist fictions including Malayalam novels that narrate the disastrous consequences of the permeation of toxic pollutants in human and ecosystemic bodies and novels that chronicle the impact of exploitative mining activities on the environment All eco narratives analysed in the book exhibit the familiar pattern of the Global South environmental narratives namely a close imbrication of the ecological and social spheres Reading Contemporary Environmental Justice argues that these selected eco texts offer inspiring scenarios where the subaltern people show thantedam or courage to claim thante idam one s own space in society and on the Earth This volume will be essential for those looking to expand their understanding of environmental justice and the harmful effects of development and modernisation

Natural Resources and Environmental Justice Anna Lukasiewicz, Stephen Dovers, Sonia Graham, Libby Robin, Jennifer McKay, Steven Schilizzi, 2017-03 Environmental management involves making decisions about the governance of natural resources such as water minerals or land which are inherently decisions about what is just or fair Yet there is little emphasis on justice in environmental management research or practical guidance on how to achieve fairness and equity in environmental governance and public policy This results in social dilemmas that are significant issues for government business and community agendas causing conflict between different community interests Natural Resources and Environmental Justice provides the first comprehensive interdisciplinary examination of justice research in Australian environmental management identifying best practice and current knowledge gaps With chapters written by experts in environmental and social sciences law and economics this book covers topical issues including coal seam gas desalination plants community relations in mining forestry negotiations sea level rise and animal rights It also proposes a social justice framework and an agenda for future justice research in environmental management These important environmental issues are covered from an Australian perspective and the book will be of broad use to policy makers researchers and managers in natural resource management and governance environmental law social impact and related fields both in Australia and abroad

Environmentalism and Global International Society Robert Falkner, 2021-07-15 Environmentalism and Global International Society reveals how environmental values and ideas have transformed the normative structure of international relations Falkner argues that environmental stewardship has become a universally accepted fundamental norm or primary institution of global international society He traces the history of environmentalism's rise from a loose set of ideas originating in the nineteenth century to a globally applicable norm in the twentieth century which has come to redefine international legitimacy and states global responsibilities He shows how this deep norm change came about as a result of the interplay between non state and state actors and how the new environmental norm has interacted with the existing primary institutions of global international society most notably sovereignty and territoriality diplomacy international law and the market This book shifts the attention from the presentist focus in the study of global environmental politics to the longue durée of global norm change in the greening of international relations

Routledge Handbook of Latin America and the Environment Beatriz Bustos, Salvatore Engel-Di Mauro, Gustavo García-López, Felipe Milanez, Diana Ojeda, 2023-05-31 The Routledge Handbook of Latin America and the Environment provides an in depth and accessible analysis and theorization of environmental issues in the region It will help readers make connections between Latin American and other regions perspectives experiences and environmental concerns Latin America has seen an acceleration of environmental degradation due to the expansion of resource extraction and urban areas This Handbook addresses Latin America not only as an object of study but also as a region with a long and profound history of critical thinking on these themes Furthermore the Handbook departs from most treatments on the topic by studying the environment as a social issue inextricably linked to politics economy and culture The Handbook will be an invaluable resource for those wanting not only to understand the issues but also to engage with ideas about environmental politics and social ecological transformation The Handbook covers a broad range of topics organized according to three areas physical geography ecology and crucial environmental problems of the region These are key theoretical and methodological issues used to understand Latin America's ecosocial contexts and institutional and grassroots practices related to more just and ecologically sustainable worlds The Handbook will set a research agenda for the near future and provide comprehensive research on most subregions relative to environmental transformations challenges struggles and political processes It stands as a fresh and much needed state of the art introduction for researchers scholars post graduates and academic audiences on Latin American contributions to theorization empirical research and environmental practices

Planning for the Planet Simone Schleper, 2019-07-12 During the 1960s and 1970s rapidly growing environmental awareness and concern created unprecedented demand for ecological expertise and novel challenges for ecological advocacy groups such as the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources IUCN This book reveals how despite their vast scientific knowledge and their attempts to incorporate socially relevant themes IUCN experts inevitably struggled to make global schemes for nature conservation a central concern for UNESCO UNEP and other intergovernmental organizations Nature and the Iron Curtain Astrid Kirchhof, J. R. McNeill, 2019-06-05 In Nature and the Iron Curtain the authors contrast communist and capitalist countries with respect to their environmental politics in the context of the Cold War Its chapters draw from archives across Europe and the U S to present new perspectives on the origins and evolution of modern environmentalism on both sides of the Iron Curtain The book explores similarities and differences among several nations with different economies and political systems and highlights connections between environmental movements in Eastern and Western Europe Environmental Humanities in Central Asia Jeanne Féaux de la Croix, Beatrice Penati, 2023-09-01 This book is the first collection to showcase the flourishing field of environmental humanities in Central Asia A region larger than Europe Central Asia possesses an astounding range of environments from deserts to glaciated peaks The volume brings into conversation scholarship from history to social anthropology demonstrating the contribution that interdisciplinary and engaged research offers to many urgent issues in the region from the history of conservationism to the tactics of environmental movements from literary engagements with pure nature to the impact of fossil fuel extraction The collection focuses on the Central Asian republics of the former USSR where a complex layering of nomadic and sedentary Turkic and Persianate Islamic and Soviet cultures ends up affecting human relations with distinct environments Featuring state of the art contributions the book enquires into human environment relations through a broad brush typology of interactive modes to extract protect enspirited and fear Broadening the scope of analysis beyond a consideration of power the authors bring into focus alternative local cosmologies and the unintended consequences of environmental policy The volume highlights scholarship from within Central Asia as well as expertise elsewhere offering readers diverse modes of knowledge production in the environmental humanities This book is an important resource for researchers and students of the environmental humanities sustainability history politics anthropology and geography of Asia as well as Soviet and Post Soviet studies Chapter 11 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
