Marketing Consumer preferences in a comparative European market research study Sarah Kniel, 2003-06-07 Diploma Thesis from the year 2002 in the subject Business economics Market research grade 1 0 A University of Kassel language English abstract Experiencing new and different cultures has been part of my life The time abroad more than a third of my life has led to many interesting personal and professional experiences This has helped me deal with new and unknown situations and respect tolerance as a most important value Out of this interest I seek to understand and learn more about different cultures Eventually one realises that differences in cultures might exist but are they really as significant as generally assumed This question is of great importance for modern economy of these days In view of the modern world as a global market the question seems to be can cultural aspects be ignored To what extent can and do they influence our thoughts and habits Bollor s market study in cooperation with 6 European universities provided an opportunity to analyse to what extent consumer behaviour is dependant on cultural aspects Our comparison of European consumer preferences might help to give some attempt to whether we can assume that geographical boundaries are the only factors dividing nations within the European Union My research is guided by the very basic question Even though European countries are linked geographically and politically and seem to be moving towards a more and more homogeneous union to what extent can they be considered as one entity The Impact of Digitalization on Current Marketing Strategies Luis Matosas-López, 2024-03-14 Digitalization completely has transformed marketing It has changed consumption habits consumer behaviour and purchasing processes In addition it has modified marketing strategies tactics and processes offering a wide range of mechanisms that allow companies of all types and sizes to enhance their commercial actions STRATEGIC MARKETING Dr. Rohit Bansal, Namrata Dubey, 2024-12-01 MBA FIRST SEMESTER According to the New Syllabus of Maharshi Dayanand University Rohtak based on NEP 2020 Why Do They Make Things so Complicated? Lisa Monika Anna Mützel, 2017-05-05 In the past 50 years consumers buying situations have not become easier Consumers remain easily overwrought by complex buying situations that involve buying complex products or services such as laptops or insurances In such situations consumers find it difficult to make a decision and must spend high levels of cognitive effort on it Prior consumer research has addressed the complexity of buying situations in several research streams such as in choice complexity or product complexity literature However previous researchers have not reached consensus on what constitutes the complexity of a buying situation Furthermore they have mostly concentrated on cognitive constructs and emotional constructs have been rather unexplored To close these research gaps this dissertation provides an in depth conceptualization of complex buying situations by developing a comprehensive reference framework Furthermore this dissertation differs from prior research by examining in detail negative emotional responses to complexity NERCO A reliable and valid NERCO scale is developed that consists of two factors emotional resignation and fear of post purchase dissonance An experiment investigates the influence of two input variables of the reference framework 1 the number of alternatives in the consumer s price class and 2 the perceived expertise of the salesperson who provides a recommendation in a buying situation on perceived choice complexity and on NERCO This dissertation paves the way for numerous directions for future research on the complexity of buying situations by providing theoretical fundamentals in the form of a detailed conceptualization and by precisely defining the research gaps
