Frederick Starr Donald McVicker,2012-11-10 This definitive detail packed biography is the first of Frederick Starr 1856 1933 a founding father of American anthropology at the University of Chicago It presents a major reevaluation of Starr s place as the missionizer of anthropology illuminates the consequences of the professionalization of anthropology and yields a greater understanding of the United States as it moved into a position of global power Donald McVicker considers Frederick Starr s colorful life in the context of the times In many respects Starr s early career paralleled that of Franz Boas the architect of American anthropology Nonetheless as Boas led professional anthropology into the twentieth century in the United States Starr the popularizer increasingly fell behind Today if Starr is remembered at all he is usually described in terms of his intellectual professional and ethical failings Yet his collections publications and photographic and paper archives provide a rich set of resources for archaeologists ethnologists folklorists and historians McVicker argues that Starr s mission to bring anthropology to the public and enlighten them was as valid a goal during his career as was Boas s goal to professionalize the field

Catastrophe and Creation K. Elkholtz Friedmann,2014-03-18 First Published in 1992 This is a study of what happened to Kongo society and culture at the turn of the 20th century when the area was penetrated brutally violated and colonized by Europeans This book is the outcome of a project called Society and Culture in Crisis whereby the author found that evolution was a continuous more or less unbroken process only at the global system level whereas repeated rises and falls took place at the local level This study closely looks at the declining development process in the Lower Congo and calls to the effects of colonization on society and culture The Statesman's Year Book ,1914
