Assessment of Options for Extending the Life of the Hubble Space Telescope National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Aeronautics and Space Engineering Board, Space Studies Board, Committee on the Assessment of Options for Extending the Life of the Hubble Space Telescope, 2005-03-28 The Hubble Space Telescope HST has operated continuously since 1990 During that time four space shuttle based service missions were launched three of which added major observational capabilities A fifth SM 4 was intended to replace key telescope systems and install two new instruments The loss of the space shuttle Columbia however resulted in a decision by NASA not to pursue the SM 4 mission leading to a likely end of Hubble's useful life in 2007 2008 This situation resulted in an unprecedented outcry from scientists and the public As a result NASA began to explore and develop a robotic servicing mission and Congress directed NASA to request a study from the National Research Council NRC of the robotic and shuttle servicing options for extending the life of Hubble This report presents an assessment of those two options It provides an examination of the contributions made by Hubble and those likely as the result of a servicing mission and a comparative analysis of the potential risk of the two options for servicing Hubble The study concludes that the Shuttle option would be the most effective one for prolonging Hubble's productive life

Breakthroughs in Space Life Science Research Günter Ruyters, Markus Braun, Katrin Maria Stang, 2021-06-10 This last volume of the SpringerBriefs in Space Life Sciences series is setup in 5 main parts The 1st part shortly summarizes the history of life science research in space from the late 40s until today with focus on Europe and Germany followed by a part on describing flight opportunities including the Space Shuttle Spacelab system and the International Space Station ISS in the 3rd part it focuses on extraordinary success stories of this constantly challenging research program and highlights some important key findings in space life science research The book introduces in the 4th part innovative developments in non invasive biomedical diagnostics and training methods for astronauts that emerge from this program and are of benefit for people on Earth especially in the aging society Last but not least in its 5th part it closes with an outlook on the future of space life sciences in the upcoming era of space exploration The book is intended for students and research scientists in the life sciences and biomedicine as well as for interested lay persons who wish to get an overview of space life science research its early days current status and future directions

Sexology as the Philosophy of Life Elizabeth Osgood Goodrich Willard, 1867

Media Space 20+ Years of Mediated Life Steve Harrison, 2009-06-04 Media Space 20 Years of Mediated Life is loosely divided into three different but interconnected approaches to media space research Each part opens with an introduction that lays out how readers can best approach the book and provides a basic guide to the theory and research literature technological developments and other notable events to help contextualize the book The social approach uses the rhetoric and methods familiar to a CSCW audience but moves into actual situations that involve close working bonds broken trust shared joy community building interpersonal tension anxiety etc The section on spatial approaches guides the reader through an intellectual landscape of spatiality the communications part is a field guide to sense making in the as lived mediated condition demonstrating that media space sense making combines an understanding of in the moment alongside sense made of existence in the world and reflecting upon it
