

Elements of Corporate Governance

1

Accountability

Employees at the top of the corporate hierarchy need to be held accountable for their actions and defend decisions to employees and customers.

2

Awareness

Any board should be aware of the company's competitive landscape and understand how success relates to finances, performance, and growth.

3

Transparency

All decisions, especially related to finances, made by the board of directors should be documented and reported to the relevant people.

4

Responsibility

The board and shareholders are responsible for overcoming any challenges, mitigating possible risks, and moving the business forward to success.

5

Impartiality

Any member of the board of directors must be neutral in decision making and act in the best interests of the business rather than their personal interests.
