challenges that teach students how to think in your discipline The shift derives from three new insights from cognitive science that we think by analogy that we learn best when we process clear focused sources and develop our own theories about our findings and that there are key threshold concepts that define the discipline and make it attractive to young practitioners This book explains each of these insights in direct clear language with examples of how to implement them in your own classroom Curricular Changes in Geography Education Magali Hardouin,Caroline Leininger-Frézal,2025-09-26

This book highlights the way in which geography curricula are conceived re organised and implemented at different levels local regional national international and how to respond concretely to these challenges It also examines the obstacles barriers and continuities that keep some parts of geography curricula in a century old tradition In this book the term curriculum is used in its Anglo Saxon conception which differs from its European use which is limited to study plans The term curriculum used in this book refers to the prescribed curriculum sometimes called formal and also to the taught or real curriculum as well as the learned curriculum To these three curricular forms a fourth is added called the hidden curriculum This includes what is implicit for the actors teachers pupils the school institution and what is voluntarily or not ignored or concealed The contributions to this book examine each type of these four curricula and their interactions It discusses how the passage from one curriculum level to another is not linear and implies recompositions ruptures as well as continuities The book also touches on the circulation between the different curricular levels and how that raises the question of the articulation between policy ies and practice

Footprints from Fossils to Gallows Russell H. Tuttle, 2023-06-30 Footprints from Fossils to Gallows Adventures in Paleoanthropology Primatology and Forensic Anthropology University of Chicago professor Russell Tuttle was privileged to study one of the most dramatic and provocative fossil discoveries of the twentieth century 3 66 million year old MA bipedal footprint trails at Laetoli Northern Tanzania This adventure concurrently led to invitations to join a team of barristers and solicitors in defense of two men accused of involvement in a murder in Winnipeg Canada The Queen s Counsel for the prosecution had engaged a certified forensic anthropologist Louise M Robbins 1928 1987 who had worked on a different section of the Laetoli footprints trails before him Her claim to have developed a new science of human footprint analysis for forensic use and wild speculations about the makers of some Laetoli prints prompted him to question her scientific ability and method of footprint analysis Tuttle 1986 and the judgment of fellow forensic anthropologists who supported her testimonials We hope this book might lead to a better understanding of how science can serve our courts by using novel and well established results of scientific research less adversarially with a view to achieve justice for all parties affected by crimes Particularly claims of new forensic methods should be tested thoroughly by peer review outside the courtroom before employment to decide matters of life and death Dr Robbins s decade of quackery is a prime example of how justice might be better served by early thorough scrutiny of a claimant s novel methods and general scientific expertise In addition to relevant literature my main source is correspondence among Drs Robbins Mary Leakey and Michael Day court records of barristers and myself from copies of correspondence in my files dating back to 1980 and Anthropology Archives at the Smithsonian Institution and detailed reports prepared by Dr Robbins and R Tuttle concerning a criminal case in Winnipeg Canada Although I did not set out to write the book as a memoir it quickly became thus as I recalled the experiences that shaped me as a paleoanthropologist Previously my research was on functional morphology history of anthropology and evolutionary biology in the USA and Europe
