A Land And Life Remembered Americo Liberian Folk Architecture:

A Land and Life Remembered Max Belcher, Svend E. Holsoe, Bernard L. Herman, 1988 Reading the Architecture of the Underprivileged Classes Nnamdi Elleh, 2016-04-01 The expansion of cities in the late C19th and middle part of the C20th in the developing and the emerging economies of the world has one major urban corollary it caused the proliferation of unplanned parts of the cities that are identified by a plethora of terminologies such as bidonville favela ghetto informal settlements and shantytown Often the dwellings in such settlements are described as shacks architecture of necessity and architecture of everyday experience in the modern and the contemporary metropolis This volume argues that the types of structures and settlements built by people who do not have access to architectural services in many cities in the developing parts of the world evolved simultaneously with the types of buildings that are celebrated in architecture textbooks as modernism It not only shows how architects can learn from traditional or vernacular dwellings in order to create habitations for the people of low income groups in public housing scenarios but also demonstrates how the architecture of the economically underprivileged classes goes beyond culturally inspired tectonic interpretations of vernacular traditions by architects for high profile clients Moreover the essays explore how the resourceful dwellings of the underprivileged inhabitants of the great cities in developing parts of the world pioneered certain concepts of modernism and contemporary design practices such as sustainable and de constructivist design Using projects from Africa Asia South and Central America as well as Austria and the USA this volume interrogates and brings to the attention of academics students and practitioners of architecture the deliberate disqualification of the modern architecture produced by the urban poor in different parts of the world Everyday Architecture of the Mid-Atlantic Gabrielle M. Lanier, Bernard L. Herman, 1997-07-15 Everyday

Architecture of the Mid Atlantic gives proof to the insights architecture offers into who we are culturally as a community a region and a nation A History of African Linguistics H. Ekkehard Wolff, 2019-06-13 The first global history of African linguistics as an emerging autonomous academic discipline covering Africa the Americas Asia Australia and Europe

African-American Exploration in West Africa James Fairhead, Tim Geysbeek, Svend E. Holsoe, Melissa Leach, 2003-11-13 In the 1860s as America waged civil war several thousand African Americans sought greater freedom by emigrating to the fledgling nation of Liberia While some argued that the new black republic represented disposal rather than emancipation a few intrepid men set out to explore their African home African American Exploration in West Africa collects the travel diaries of James L Sims George L Seymour and Benjamin J K Anderson who explored the territory that is now Liberia and Guinea between 1858 and 1874 These remarkable diaries reveal the wealth and beauty of Africa in striking descriptions of its geography people flora and fauna The dangers of the journeys surface too Seymour was attacked and later died of his wounds and his companion Levin Ash was captured and sold into slavery again Challenging the notion that there were no black explorers in Africa these diaries provide unique perspectives on 19th century Liberian life and life in the interior of the continent before it was radically changed by European colonialism

Liberia Mary H. Moran, 2013-03-01 Liberia a small West African country that has been wracked by violence and civil war since 1989 seems a paradoxical place in which to examine questions of democracy and popular participation Yet Liberia is also the oldest republic in Africa having become independent in 1847 after colonization by an American philanthropic organization as a refuge for Free People of Color from the United States Many analysts have attributed the violent upheaval and state collapse Liberia experienced in the 1980s and 1990s to a lack of democratic institutions and long standing patterns of autocracy secrecy and lack of transparency Liberia The Violence of Democracy is a response from an anthropological perspective to the literature on neopatrimonialism in Africa Mary H Moran argues that democracy is not a foreign import into Africa but that essential aspects of what we in the West consider democratic values are part of the indigenous African traditions of legitimacy and political process In the case of Liberia these democratic traditions include institutionalized checks and balances operating at the local level that allow for the voices of structural subordinates women and younger men to be heard and be effective in making claims Moran maintains that the violence and state collapse that have beset Liberia and the surrounding region in the past two decades cannot be attributed to ancient tribal hatreds or neopatrimonial leaders who are simply a modern version of traditional chiefs Rather democracy and violence are intersecting themes in Liberian history that have manifested themselves in numerous contexts over the years Moran challenges many assumptions about Africa as a continent and speaks in an impassioned voice about the meanings of democracy and violence within Liberia

Emigration to Liberia Matthew F. K.

McDaniel, 2013-09-20 Between 1853 and 1903 some 500 African Americans left the Chattahoochee Valley of Georgia and Alabama to start new lives in the West African Republic of Liberia Most of the emigrants departed for Liberia during the uncertainty of the post Civil War years of 1867 and 1868 Most sought safety and escape from a still intact white supremacist society The ready availability of land in Liberia also promised greater opportunities for prosperity there than in the South

Black nationalism and evangelical zeal motivated others Liberia would be their own country and afford an opportunity to spread Christianity throughout Africa The emigrant group was largely made up of families and included many children consequently the group was of a young average age Most were farmers but some tradesmen and clergymen also emigrated All faced many hardships Some returned to the United States however most stayed and a small number prospered Although the Chattahoochee Valley emigration to Liberia was a disappointment to many a resourceful few found escape and safety from a white supremacist society and their own land in their own country Historical sources on this regional migration are limited but the American Colonization Society ACS the primary sponsor of the Liberian emigration movement recorded demographic data on the emigrants Some emigrant correspondence was preserved in the journal of the ACS and in local newspapers of the period From these sources the history of this movement the motivations and characteristics of the emigrant group and the experience of the emigrants in Liberia can be developed

Finding Colonial Americas

Joseph A. Leo Lemay, 2001 The stories now being told about the colonial American past represent an America newly found as scholars continue to evaluate and revise the longer standing stories that have across the centuries held particular cultural and critical sway This collection is a celebration of the widening of scholarly inquiry in early American studies and a tribute to a leading early Americanist whose scholarly career continues to contribute to the opening up of crucial questions of canon

Early African American Print Culture Lara Langer Cohen, Jordan Alexander Stein, 2012-09-06 The eighteenth and nineteenth centuries saw both the consolidation of American print culture and the establishment of an African American literary tradition yet the two are too rarely considered in tandem In this landmark volume a stellar group of established and emerging scholars ranges over periods locations and media to explore African Americans diverse contributions to early American print culture both on the page and off The book s chapters consider domestic novels and gallows narratives Francophone poetry and engravings of Liberia transatlantic lyrics and San Francisco newspapers Together they consider how close attention to the archive can expand the study of African American literature well beyond matters of authorship to include issues of editing illustration circulation and reading and how this expansion can enrich and transform the study of print culture more generally

Humanities , 1990 Robert R. Taylor and Tuskegee Ellen Weiss, 2012-01-01 Ellen Weiss breaks important new ground in her remarkable monograph on Robert R Taylor This volume is by far the most detailed account we have of an African American architect Weiss vividly conveys the immense challenges faced by black architects and professionals of every kind especially during the rise of Jim Crow Along the way we get myriad insights on architectural education architect client relationships and the development of a major institution of higher learning Richard Longstreth George Washington University Architectural historian Ellen Weiss s book provides a wealth of little known factual information about Taylor and a scholarly historical analysis of his many contributions in architectural education and professional practice A must read for anyone with an interest in architecture and a certain reference for every architecture student Richard Dozier Dean Robert R Taylor School of Architecture Construction Science Tuskegee University Robert R Taylor s place in history as the first academically trained African American architect has been well known but an authoritative assessment of his contribution to American architectural and planning practice has remained elusive until now Weiss deftly interweaves the story of the Tuskegee campus with an examination of Taylor s pedagogy and the plight of black architects in the early twentieth century Gary Van Zante Curator of Architecture and Design Massachusetts Institute of Technology I, Too, Am America Theresa A.
