

The Stranger

A painting of a man standing on a beach looking out at the ocean at sunset. The man is in silhouette, wearing a dark jacket and shorts, standing on the sandy shore. The ocean is a deep blue with white-capped waves. A bright yellow light, possibly the setting or rising sun, is visible on the horizon, casting a long, thin beam of light across the water. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue. The overall mood is contemplative and solitary.

The Stranger (English Edition) Albert Camus,2016-02-20 The Outsider or The Stranger French L Etranger is a novel by Albert Camus published in 1942 Its theme and outlook are often cited as exemplars of Camus s philosophy of the absurd and existentialism though Camus personally rejected the latter label The titular character is Meursault an indifferent French Algerian a citizen of France domiciled in North Africa a man of the Mediterranean an homme du midi yet one who hardly partakes of the traditional Mediterranean culture who after attending his mother s funeral apathetically kills an Arab man whom he recognises in French Algiers The story is divided into two parts presenting Meursault s first person narrative view before and after the murder respectively In January 1955 Camus wrote I summarized The Stranger a long time ago with a remark I admit was highly paradoxical In our society any man who does not weep at his mother s funeral runs the risk of being sentenced to death I only meant that the hero of my book is condemned because he does not play the game The Stranger ,2002 Camus: The Stranger Patrick McCarthy,2004-01-19 Publisher Description The Stranger \(Novel\) Albert Camus,2016-04-19 is a novel by Albert Camus published in 1942 Its theme and outlook are often cited as exemplars of Camus s philosophy of the absurd and existentialism though Camus personally rejected the latter label The Stranger by Albert Camus Albert Camus,1942 The Stranger French L tranger also published in English as The Outsider is a 1942 novella by French author Albert Camus Its theme and outlook are often cited as examples of Camus philosophy absurdism coupled with existentialism though Camus personally rejected the latter label The title character is Meursault an indifferent French settler in Algeria described as a citizen of France domiciled in North Africa a man of the Mediterranean an homme du midi yet one who hardly partakes of the traditional Mediterranean culture Weeks after his mother s funeral he kills an Arab man in French Algiers who was involved in a conflict with one of Meursault s neighbors Meursault is tried and sentenced to death The story is divided into two parts presenting Meursault s first person narrative view before and after the murder respectively Meursault learns of the death of his mother who has been living in an old age home in the country He takes time off from work to attend her funeral but he shows no signs of grief or mourning that the people around him expect from someone in his situation When asked if he wishes to view her body he declines and he smokes and drinks regular white coffee not the obligatory black coffee at the vigil held by his mother s coffin the night before the burial Most of his comments to the reader at this time are about his observations of the aged attendees at the vigil and funeral which takes place on an unbearably hot day Back in Algiers Meursault encounters Marie a former secretary of his firm The two become re acquainted swim together watch a comedy film and begin to have an intimate relationship All of this happens on the day after his mother s funeral Over the next few days Meursault helps Raymond Sint s a neighbor and friend who is rumored to be a pimp but says

he works in a warehouse to get revenge on a Moorish girlfriend he suspects has been accepting gifts and money from another man Raymond asks Meursault to write a letter inviting the girl over to Raymond's apartment solely so that he can have sex with her and then spit in her face and throw her out While he listens to Raymond Meursault is characteristically unfazed by any feelings of empathy so he does not express concern that Raymond's girlfriend would be emotionally hurt by this plan and agrees to write the letter In general Meursault considers other people either interesting or annoying or feels nothing for them at all Raymond's girlfriend visits him on a Sunday morning and the police get involved when he beats her for slapping him after he tries to kick her out He asks Meursault to testify that the girlfriend had been unfaithful when he is called to the police station to which Meursault agrees Ultimately Raymond is let off with a warning The Stranger Albert Camus,1993-02-23 With the excitement of a perfectly executed thriller and the force of a parable The Stranger is the work of one of the most engaged and intellectually alert writers of the past century Albert Camus's spare laconic masterpiece about a murder in Algeria is famous for having diagnosed with an almost scientific clarity that condition of reckless alienation and spiritual exhaustion that characterized so much of twentieth century life The Outsider Albert Camus,1999 Translated from the French by Joseph Laredo Modern classic Albert Camus's *The Stranger Peter Francev,2014-06-26 Often marginalised on the sidelines of both philosophy and literature the works of Albert Camus have in recent years undergone a renaissance While most readers in either discipline claim Camus and his works to be theirs the scholars presented in this volume tend to see him and his works in both philosophy and literature This volume is a collection of critical essays by an international menagerie of Camus experts who despite their interpretive differences see Camus through both lenses For them he is a novelist essayist who embodies a philosophy that was never fully developed due to his brief life The essays here examine Camus's first published novel The Stranger from a variety of critical and theoretical perspectives each drawing on the author's knowledge to present the first known critical examination in English As such this volume will shed new light on previous scholarship The Stranger, by Albert Camus, Translated from the French by Stuart Gilbert Albert Camus,1942

The Stranger Robert Cook,2016-06-25 The Stranger by Albert Camus is a French philosophical novel written in the mid 1940s In the novel we are introduced to our narrator Monsieur Meursault Meursault is a French man living in Algiers and has just received word via telegram that his elderly mother has passed away He notes that he has asked for two days of leave from his job even though his boss is quite annoyed by this He is to travel to the Home for Aged Persons in Marengo which is at least fifty miles from Algiers He takes the bus and sleeps for most of the trip from Algiers to Marengo Once he arrives in Marengo he realizes he has a one mile walk to the home When he finally arrives to the home he is greeted by the doorkeeper The warden meets him in his office and tells him that even though Meursault all but abandoned his mother in this home it was the absolute best decision he could have made The director knows that Meursault makes very little money at his job and could not take care of his mother He also claims that Meursault's mother had made great friends and had enjoyed spending her last few years with people of her own age Meursault had felt judged by the warden but after this conversation he agreed with the notion that his mother had been better off in this home instead of living with him We see Meursault rationalizing why he had not been to visit his mother much as it cost him an entire weekend day on Sundays the commute to the home was an hour each way and getting a ticket for the bus was a hassle in and of itself The director then informs Meursault that he has arranged for a religious funeral ceremony to be performed the next day Meursault knows that his mother was not religious and would not care When it comes time for Meursault to see his mother he does not want to see the body as it was already sealed inside the casket This causes the doorkeeper to ask Meursault why to which he responds he cannot think of a reason The doorkeeper describes why the hold funerals so quickly in Marengo He tells Meursault that it gets too hot there for them to keep the bodies for four or five days like Paris does Meursault finds this topic interesting The old man then informs him of the custom of allowing all the other residents to hold an overnight vigil by the casket before the funeral Meursault finds this odd but plays along The doorkeeper offers him some coffee Meursault gladly accepts and gives the doorkeeper a cigarette in exchange Meursault eventually falls asleep in the room waiting for the elderly residents to arrive for the vigil He is eventually woken up by the sound of people shuffling into the room Once people are settled in their seats the only sound he hears is the sound of a woman sobbing in the second row This perturbs him for a bit but eventually he falls asleep again and sleeps until morning

The Stranger by Albert Camus a Critical Introduction (Revised Edition) Ray Moore, 2015-02-03 The Second Edition of this popular critical study has been significantly expanded and completely revised making it the most thorough single volume study of Camus' classic novel A Critical Introduction places Camus' ideas in context Part One shows the development of his thought in the early essays the unpublished A Happy Death the plays Caligula and The Misunderstanding and the philosophical work The Myth of Sisyphus Building on this foundation Part Two gives a detailed consistent reading of The Stranger The aim throughout is to explain the meaning that Camus intended his text to have thus meeting the needs of both the general reader and the student up to graduate level This guide is thought provoking and encourages the reader to develop their own ideas about interpreting the central themes of the text
