Appropriations United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies, 2007 State Responses to Nuclear Proliferation Brian K. Chappell, 2021-01-07 Contemporary fears of rogue state nuclear proliferation and nuclear terrorism pose unique challenges for the global community This book offers a unique approach by examining why states that have the military capability to severely damage

a proliferating state's nuclear program instead choose to pursue coercive diplomacy The author argues cognitive psychological influences including the trauma derived from national tragedies like the September 11th attacks and the Holocaust and a history of armed conflict increase the threat perceptions of foreign policy decision makers when confronting a state perceived to be challenging the existing power structure by pursuing a nuclear weapon The powerful state's degree of perceived threat combined with its national security policies military power projection capabilities and public support then influence whether it will take no action use coercive diplomacy sanctions or employ military force to address the weaker state's nuclear ambitions

Streets without Joy Michael A. Innes, 2021-09-15 America's wars after the 9 11 attacks were marked by a political obsession with terrorist sanctuaries and safe havens From mountain redoubts in Afghanistan to the deserts of Iraq Washington's policy makers maintained an unwavering focus on finding and destroying the refuges bases and citadels of modern guerrilla movements and holding their sponsors to account This was a preoccupation embedded in nearly every official speech and document of the time a corpus of material that offered a new logic for thinking about the world As an exercise in political communication it was a spectacular success From 2001 to 2009 President George W Bush and his closest advisors set terms of reference that cascaded down from the White House through government and into the hearts and minds of Americans Sanctuary was the red thread running through all of it permeating the decisions and discourses of the day Where did this obsession come from How did it become such an important feature of American political life In this new political history Michael A Innes explores precedents from Saigon to Baghdad and traces how decision makers and their advisors used ideas of sanctuary to redefine American foreign policy national security and enemies real and imagined
