Bronzeville examines the flowering of African American creativity activism and scholarship in the South Side Chicago district known as Bronzeville during the period between the Harlem Renaissance in the 1920s and the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s Poverty stricken segregated and bursting at the seams with migrants Bronzeville was the community that provided inspiration training and work for an entire generation of diversely talented African American authors and artists who came of age during the years between the two world wars In this significant recovery project Elizabeth Schroeder Schlabach investigates the institutions and streetscapes of Black Chicago that fueled an entire literary and artistic movement She argues that African American authors and artists such as Gwendolyn Brooks Richard Wright Langston Hughes painter Archibald Motley and many others viewed and presented black reality from a specific geographic vantage point the view along the streets of Bronzeville Schlabach explores how the particular rhythms and scenes of daily life in Bronzeville locations such as the State Street Stroll district or the bustling intersection of 47th Street and South Parkway figured into the creative works and experiences of the artists and writers of the Black Chicago Renaissance She also covers in detail the South Side Community Art Center and the South Side Writers Group two institutions of art and literature that engendered a unique aesthetic consciousness and political ideology for which the Black Chicago Renaissance would garner much fame Life in Bronzeville also involved economic hardship and social injustice themes that resonated throughout the flourishing arts scene Schlabach explores Bronzeville s harsh living conditions exemplified in the cramped one bedroom kitchenette apartments that housed many of the migrants drawn to the city s promises of opportunity and freedom Many struggled with the precariousness of urban life and Schlabach shows how the once vibrant neighborhood eventually succumbed to the pressures of segregation and economic disparity Providing a virtual tour South Side African American urban life at street level Along the Streets of Bronzeville charts the complex interplay and intersection of race geography and cultural criticism during the Black Chicago Renaissance s rise and fall The African American National Biography Henry Louis Gates, Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham, 2008 An 8 volume reference set containing over 4 000 entries written by distinguished scholars The African American National Biography is the most significant and expansive compilation of black lives in print today
