Travels with a Donkey in the Cévennes Robert Louis Stevenson, 2019-02-13 Temperament and poor health motivated Robert Louis Stevenson to travel widely throughout his short life and before he was celebrated as the author of Treasure Island A Child s Garden of Verses and other immortal works he was known for his travelogues This collection presents some of his finest writing in that vein starting with An Inland Voyage This 1878 chronicle of a canoe journey through Belgium and France charmingly captures the European villages and townspeople of a bygone era Other selections include Travels with a Donkey in the C evennes a humorous account of a mountain trek and Forest Notes a meditation on nature based on visits to the Forest of Fontainebleau near Paris and adjacent artists colonies These early writings offer captivating insights into Stevenson s bohemian nature and the wanderlust that sent him from his native Scotland to journeys around the world was taken but was heralded by glasses round and celebrated by a dinner or a breakfast It was already hard upon October before I was ready to set forth and at the high altitudes over which my road lay there was no Indian summer to be looked for I was determined if not to camp out at least to have the means of camping out in my possession for there is nothing more harassing to an easy mind than the necessity of reaching shelter by dusk and the hospitality of a village inn is not always to be reckoned sure by those who trudge on foot A tent above all for a solitary traveller is troublesome to pitch and troublesome to strike again and even on the march it forms a conspicuous feature in your baggage A sleeping sack on the other hand is always ready you have only to get into it it serves a double purpose a bed by night a portmanteau by day and it does not advertise your intention of camping out to every curious passer by This is a huge point If a camp is not secret it is but a troubled resting place you become a public character the convivial rustic visits your bedside after an early supper and you must sleep with one eye open and be up before the day I decided on a sleeping sack and after repeated visits to Le Puy and a deal of high living for myself and my advisers a sleeping sack was designed constructed and triumphantly brought home This child of my invention was nearly six feet square exclusive of two triangular flaps to serve as a pillow by night and as the top and bottom of the sack by day I call it the sack but it was never a sack by more than courtesy only a sort of long roll or sausage green waterproof cart cloth without and blue sheep s fur within It was commodious as a valise warm and dry for a bed There was luxurious turning room for one and at a pinch the thing might serve for two I could bury myself in it up to the neck for my head I trusted to a fur cap with a hood to fold down over my ears and a band to pass under my nose like a respirator and in case of heavy rain I proposed to make myself a little tent or tentlet with my waterproof coat three stones and a bent branch It will readily be conceived that I could not carry this huge package on my own merely human shoulders It remained to choose a beast of burden
