

The book cover features a detailed illustration of Ada Byron Lovelace on the left, looking towards a large, complex mechanical computer on the right. She has dark hair styled in a bun with a yellow headband and is adorned with yellow flowers. She wears a blue shawl over a green dress. The mechanical computer is a multi-tiered structure with brass-colored pipes and two visible panels of numbers (5, 6, 7, 8, 9). The background is a deep blue with faint, large gears. The title is written in a golden-yellow serif font at the top, and the author and illustrator names are at the bottom in a similar font.

Women Philosophers in Nineteenth-Century Britain Alison Stone, 2023 Many women wrote philosophy in nineteenth century Britain and they wrote across the full range of philosophical topics Yet these important women thinkers have been left out of the philosophical canon and many of them are barely known today The aim of this book is to put them back on the map It introduces twelve women philosophers Mary Shepherd Harriet Martineau Ada Lovelace George Eliot Frances Power Cobbe Helena Blavatsky Julia Wedgwood Victoria Welby Arabella Buckley Annie Besant Vernon Lee and Constance Naden Alison Stone looks at their views on naturalism philosophy of mind evolution morality and religion and progress in history She shows how these women interacted and developed their philosophical views in conversation with one another not only with their male contemporaries The rich print and periodical culture of the period enabled these women to publish philosophy in forms accessible to a general readership despite the restrictions women faced such as having limited or no access to university education Stone explains how these women became excluded from the history of philosophy because there was a cultural shift at the end of the nineteenth century towards specialised forms of philosophical writing which depended on academic credentials that were still largely unavailable to women The Heart and Science of Teaching C.
