

* THIS, TOO, SHALL PASS AWAY ✓✓

WHEN SOME GREAT SORROW, like a mighty river,
Flows through your life with peace-destroying power,
And dearest things are swept from sight forever,
Say to your heart each trying hour:
"This, too, shall pass away."

When ceaseless toil has hushed your song of gladness,
And you have grown almost too tired to pray,
Let this truth banish from your heart its sadness,
And ease the burdens of each trying day:
"This, too, shall pass away."

When fortune smiles, and, full of mirth and pleasure,
The days are flitting by without a care,
Lest you should rest with only earthly treasure,
Let these few words their fullest import bear:
"This, too, shall pass away."

Lightning-scene in Ancient Arabic Poetry Ali Ahmad Hussein,2009 In Old Arabic poetry from the pre Islamic and early Islamic periods to the end of the orthodox Caliphate one theme is the lightning scene In this the protagonist asserts that he could not sleep because he saw lightning flashing far away in the sky The book explores the various functions of this scene and its relationship with other parts of the poem This study achieves two main goals The first sheds light on two important terms connected with Old Arabic poetry the function and the narration We see how a certain element can function differently from text to text and how these different functions influence the narration of a poem and consequently make it to some degree idiosyncratic i e a text that differs from other poems that include the same element The second purpose is to make a comprehensive study of the components namely the motifs included in the lightning scenes Here the author reaches conclusions regarding whether these components differ significantly from text to text or whether they are merely repetitions In other words this study examines whether the lightning scenes in themselves are idiosyncratic or on the contrary are fossilized and conventional follow long established poetic traditions The Literary Gazette and Journal of Belles Lettres, Arts, Politics, Etc ,1818
