Troubling Vision Nicole R. Fleetwood, 2011-01-30 Nicole R. Fleetwood explores how blackness is seen as a troubling presence in the field of vision and the black body is persistently seen as a problem. She examines a wide range of materials from visual and media art, documentary, photography, theatre, performance, and more.

Moving Blackness Lisa B. Y. Calvente, 2025-01-14 Moving Blackness: Black Circulation, Racism, and Relations of Homespace delves into the intricate connections between communication, culture, power, and racism in relation to blackness. Through a blend of interviews, oral histories, and meticulous archival research, this book sheds light on the multifaceted narratives surrounding Black identity. It explores how these stories circulate, serving as tools of resistance, negotiation, and affirmation of diverse manifestations and representations of blackness. By emphasizing the significance of storytelling as a means through which blackness affirms itself, transcending time and space, the book underscores how communicative embodiments of Black identity enable individuals to persevere within marginalized contexts. Engaging with theories of anti-Black racism, modernity, coloniality, and the Black diaspora, the book frames storytelling and the circulation of narratives as performances deeply rooted in the everyday lives of Black people across the diaspora. Starting with an examination of the racial construction of movement during colonialism and slavery, the book traces how this history shapes contemporary interactions. With its exploration of how Black circulation transforms movement and space, the book introduces a forward-thinking approach to the Black diaspora, anchored in a politics of identification rather than being confined to the past or a specific location. Moving Blackness argues that the desire for homespace, a yearning for belonging that transcends any particular physical space, fuels this envisioned future rooted in the historical and material conditions of racism and marginalization.

Real Black John L. Jackson Jr., 2005-11-15 New York's urban neighborhoods are full of young would-be emcees who aspire to keep it real, and restaurants like Sylvia's famous soul food eatery that offer a taste of authentic black culture. In these and other venues, authenticity is considered the best way to distinguish the real from the phony, the genuine from the fake. But in Real Black, John L. Jackson Jr. proposes a new model for thinking about these issues: racial sincerity. Jackson argues that authenticity caricatures identity as something imposed on people, imprisoning them within stereotypes, turning them into racial objects and inanimate things instead of living, breathing human beings. Contending that such assumptions deny people agency, not to mention humanity, in their search for identity, Jackson counterposes sincerity as an internal and more productive analytical model for thinking about race. Moving in and around Harlem and Brooklyn, Jackson offers a kaleidoscope of subjects and stories that directly and indirectly address how race is negotiated in today's world, including tales of name-changing hip-hop emcees, book-vending numerologists, urban conspiracy theorists, corrupt police officers, mixed-race neo-Nazis, and high school gospel choirs forbidden to catch the Holy Ghost. Enlisting Anthroman, his cape crusading critical alter ego Jackson records and retells these interconnected sagas in virtuosic detail and in the process shows us how race is defined and debated imposed and confounded every single day

Reframing Blackness and Black Solidarities through Anti-colonial and Decolonial Prisms George J. Sefa Dei, 2017-05-19 This book grounds particular struggles at the curious interface of skin body psyche hegemonies and politics Specifically it adds to current re theorizations of Blackness anti Blackness and Black solidarities through anti colonial and decolonial prisms The discussion challenges the reductionism of contemporary polity of Blackness in regards to capitalism globalization particularly when relegated to the colonial power and privileged experiences of settler The book does so by arguing that this practice perpetuates procedures of violence and social injustice upon Black and African peoples The book brings critical readings to Black racial identity representation and politics informed by pertinent questions What are the tools frameworks Black peoples in Euro American Canadian contexts can deploy to forge community and solidarity and to resist anti Black racism and other social oppressions What critical analytical tools can be developed to account for Black lived experiences agency and resistance What are the limits of the tools or frameworks for anti racist anti colonial work How do such critical tools or frameworks of Blackness and anti Blackness assist in anti racist and anti colonial practice The book provides new coordinates for collective and global mobilization by troubling the politics of decolonizing solidarity as pointing to new ways for forging critical friends and political workers The book concludes by offering some important lessons for teaching and learning about Blackness and anti Blackness confronting some contemporary issues of schooling and education in Euro American contexts and suggesting ways to foster dialogic and generative forums for such critical discussions

Abstractionist Aesthetics Phillip Brian Harper, 2015-12-25 An artistic discussion on the critical potential of African American expressive culture In a major reassessment of African American culture Phillip Brian Harper intervenes in the ongoing debate about the proper depiction of black people He advocates for African American aesthetic abstractionism a representational mode whereby an artwork rather than striving for realist verisimilitude vigorously asserts its essentially artificial character Maintaining that realist representation reaffirms the very social facts that it might have been understood to challenge Harper contends that abstractionism shows up the actual constructedness of those facts thereby subjecting them to critical scrutiny and making them amenable to transformation Arguing against the need for positive representations Abstractionist Aesthetics displaces realism as the primary mode of African American representational aesthetics re centers literature as a principal site of African American cultural politics and elevates experimental prose within the domain of African American literature Drawing on examples across a variety of artistic production including the visual work of Fred Wilson and Kara Walker the music of Billie Holiday and Cecil Taylor and the prose and verse writings of Ntozake Shange Alice Walker and John Keene this book poses urgent questions about how racial blackness is made to assume certain social meanings In the process African American aesthetics are upended rendering abstractionism as the most powerful modality for Black representation

You Can't Go to War without Song Omotayo

Jolaosho, 2022-07-26 You Can't Go to War without Song explores the role of public performance in political activism in contemporary South Africa. Weaving together detailed ethnographic fieldwork and an astute theoretical framework, Omotayo Jolaosho examines the cohesive power of protest songs and dances within the Anti-Privatisation Forum (APF), one of many social movements that emerged in the wake of South Africa's democratic transition after 1994. Jolaosho demonstrates the ways APF members adapted anti-apartheid songs and dance to create new expressive forms that informed and commented on their struggles for access to water, electricity, housing, education, and health facilities, the costs of which had been made prohibitive by privatization. You Can't Go to War without Song offers profiles of individual activists to amplify its central point: social movements like the APF are best understood as the coming together of individuals, and it is the songs and dances of the movement that bind these individuals together and create opportunity for community organization. Chapters on women and youth complicate such understandings of community, however, showing how activists' lives and experiences are shaped by gender and generation.

Slaves to Fashion Monica L. Miller, 2009-10-08 Cultural and literary history of black dandyism from the 1700s to the 1960s

Which Sin to Bear? David Chinitz, 2013-03-07 Which Sin to Bear highlights how Langston Hughes struggled with the tension between genuine artistic meaning and commercial concessions throughout his prolific career.

Scripts of Blackness Noémie Ndiaye, 2022-09-20 Scripts of Blackness shows how the early modern mass media of theatre and performance culture at large helped turn blackness into a racial category that is into a type of difference justifying emerging social hierarchies and power relations in a new world order driven by colonialism and capitalism. In this book, Noémie Ndiaye explores the techniques of impersonation used by white performers to represent Afro-diasporic people in England, France, and Spain in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries using a comparative and transnational framework. She reconstructs three specific performance techniques: black up, cosmetic blackness, black-speak, acoustic blackness, and black dances, kinetic blackness, in order to map out the poetics of those techniques and track a number of metaphorical strains that early modern playtexts regularly associated with them. Those metaphorical strains, the titular scripts of blackness of this book, operated across national borders and constituted resources as they provided spectators and participants with new ways of thinking about the Afro-diasporic people who lived or could would ultimately live in their midst. Those scripts were often gendered and hinged on notions of demonization, exclusion, exploitation, animalization, commodification, sexualization, consensual enslavement, misogynoir, infantilization, and evocative association with other racialized minorities. Scripts of Blackness attempts to grasp the stories that Western Europeans told themselves through performative blackness and the effects of those fictions on early modern Afro-diasporic subjects.
