Numerical Development - From cognitive functions to neural underpinnings Korbinian Moeller, Elise Klein, Klaus F Willmes - von Hinckeldey, Karin Kucian, 2015-02-24 Living at the beginning of the 21st century requires being numerate because numerical abilities are not only essential for life prospects of individuals but also for economic interests of post industrial knowledge societies Thus numerical development is at the core of both individual as well as societal interests There is the notion that we are already born with a very basic ability to deal with small numerosities Yet this often called number sense seems to be very restricted approximate and driven by perceptual constraints During our numerical development in formal e g school but also informal contexts e g family street we acquire culturally developed abstract symbol systems to represent exact numerosities in particular number words and Arabic digits refining our numerical capabilities In recent years numerical development has gained increasing research interest documented in a growing number of behavioural neuro scientific educational cross cultural and neuropsychological studies addressing this issue Additionally our understanding of how numerical competencies develop has also benefitted considerably from the advent of different neuro imaging techniques allowing for an evaluation of developmental changes in the human brain In sum we are now starting to put together a more and more coherent picture of how numerical competencies develop and how this development is associated with neural changes as well In the end this knowledge might also lead to a better understanding of the reasons for atypical numerical development which often has grievous consequences for those who suffer from developmental dyscalculia or mathematics learning disabilities Therefore this Research Topic deals with all aspects of numerical development findings from behavioural performance to underlying neural substrates from cross sectional to longitudinal evaluations from healthy to clinical populations To this end we included empirical contributions using different experimental methodologies but also theoretical contributions review articles or opinion papers

Arithmetic Counts! Paul Shoecraft, 2025-01-24 Dr Shoecraft may be the only mathematician since the New Math in the 1960s to seriously analyze the lowly subject of arithmetic and how to teach it His breakthrough came when he experimented with teaching what needs to be understood instead of known memorized like teaching why addition problems

until the algorithm they are using supposedly becomes cemented in their brains By teaching the essence of arithmetic in sensible ways and appealing to children s love of games songs and movement he s proven that virtually ALL children can learn arithmetic the foundation of algebra higher mathematics science technology and more even music When children understand arithmetic they own it It s no lonver just their teacher s math It s their math America s children are being held back in math because of how arithmetic is drug out in elementary school Virtually every textbook based elementary school math program in use today is mind numbing in its repetitiveness from grade to grade The reason for the redundancy is to slow down the teaching of arithmetic so it can be memorized Research shows that the human brain is not designed to remember things learned by rote when no longer practiced That s acknowledged in the use it or lose it aphorism that states the obvious that we remember what we use and forget what we don t You know that to be true if you ve ever forgotten things you once knew as well as your own name things like an old address or a license plate number Every child can understand base ten numeration when taught hands on with arithmetic blocks Thereby every child can understand base ten arithmetic And every child can learn how to count out the number facts like 5 7 12 17 8 9 6 X 7 42 and 56 7 8 and if they forget one never have to guess and risk ridicule and bad grades if they guess wrong What matters in teaching arithmetic is not how much a child can remember but how much they can figure out if when they forget Holocaust, Grades 5 - 8
