Thomism and the Problem of Animal Suffering B. Kyle Keltz, 2020-06-12 The problem of animal suffering is the atheistic argument that an all knowing all powerful and all good God would not use millions of years of animal suffering disease and death to form a planet for human beings This argument has not received as much attention in the philosophical literature as other forms of the problem of evil yet it has been increasingly touted by atheists since Charles Darwin While several theists have attempted to provide answers to the problem they disagree with each other as to which answer is correct Also some of these theists have given in to the problem and believe it entails that God is limited in certain ways B Kyle Keltz seeks to provide a classical answer to the problem of animal suffering inspired by the medieval philosopher theologian Thomas Aquinas In doing so Keltz not only utilizes the wisdom of Aquinas but also contemporary insights into non human animal minds from contemporary philosophy and science Keltz provides a compelling neo Thomistic answer to the problem of animal suffering and explains why the classical God of theism would create a world that includes animal death An Unexpected Journal: The Power of Story Annie Crawford, Karise Gililand, Nicole Howe, Korine Martinez, Seth Myers, Edward A.W. Lewis, 2016-07-02 When Mr Ashley Sampson suggested to me the writing of this book I asked leave to be allowed to write it anonymously since if I were to say what I really thought about pain I should be forced to make statements of such apparent fortitude that they would become ridiculous if anyone knew who made them Anonymity was rejected as inconsistent with the series but Mr Sampson pointed out that I could write a preface explaining that I did not live up to my own principles This exhilarating programme I am now carrying out Let me confess at once in the words of good Walter Hilton that throughout this book I feel myself so far from true feeling of that I speak that I can naught else but cry mercy and desire after it as I may Yet for that very reason there is one criticism which cannot be brought against me No one can say He jests at scars who never felt a wound for I have never for one moment been in a state of mind to which even the imagination of serious pain was less than intolerable If any man is safe from the danger of under estimating this adversary I am that man I must add too that the only purpose of the book is to solve the intellectual problem raised by suffering for the far higher task of teaching fortitude and patience I was never fool enough to suppose myself qualified nor have I anything to offer my readers except my conviction that when pain is to be borne a little courage helps more than much knowledge a little human sympathy more than much courage and the least tincture of the love of God more than all If any real theologian reads these pages he will very easily see that they are the work of a layman and an amateur Except in the last two chapters parts of which are admittedly speculative I have believed myself to be re stating ancient and orthodox doctrines If any parts of the book are original in the sense of being novel or unorthodox they are so against my will and as a result of my ignorance I write of course as a layman of the Church of England but I have tried to assume nothing that is not professed by all baptised and communicating Christians As this is not a work of erudition I have taken little pains to trace ideas or quotations to their sources when they were not easily recoverable Any theologian will see easily enough what and how little I have read
