The Memory Stones By Kate Oriordan:

Irish Women Writers Speak Out Caitriona Moloney, Helen Thompson, 2003-03-01 Bringing together the diverse and marvelously articulate voices of women of Irish and Irish American descent editors Caitriona Moloney and Helen Thompson examine the complicated maps of experience that the women's public private and literary lives represent particularly as they engage in both feminism and postcolonialism Acknowledging Mary Robinson's revised view of Irish identity now global rather than local this work recognizes the importance of identity as a site of mobility The pieces reveal how complex the terms feminism and postcolonialism are they examine how the individual writers see their identities constructed and or mediated by sexuality In addition the book traces common themes of female agency violence generational conflicts migration emigration religion and politics to name a few As it represents the next wave of Irish women writers this book offers fresh insight into the work of emerging and established authors and will appeal to a new generation of readers In the Wake of the Tiger

David Clark, Rubén Jarazo Álvarez, 2010-09 The field of Irish Studies has undergone a period of great fruitfulness over the last decade Concurrent with the economic revolution and subsequent financial crash an immense interest in the island of Ireland and her cultural practices has been apparent from parts of the globe and academic debate on Irish culture and society has been intense and prosperous This volume contains a number of essays which approach a variety of issues raised within the framework of post Celtic Tiger Ireland with contributions from scholars working in Europe The book is divided into four sections on Trauma Studies on the relationship between Ireland with Europe and the rest of the world on Audiovisual Studies and on Ireland and the Celtic Tiger The essays reflect a variety of issues which are of great relevance to an understanding of the world of Irish Studies at the end of the first decade of the twenty first century Twentieth-Century Fiction by Irish Women

Heather Ingman, 2017-03-02 During much of the twentieth century Irish women's position was on the boundaries of national life Using Julia Kristeva's theories of nationhood often particularly relevant to Ireland this study demonstrates that their marginalization was to women's and indeed the nation's advantage as Irish women writers used their voice to subvert received pieties both about women and about the Irish nation Kristevan theories of the other the foreigner the semiotic the mother and the sacred are explored in authors as diverse as Elizabeth Bowen Kate O'Brien Edna O'Brien Mary Dorsey Jennifer Johnston and Eilís Ní Dhuibhne as well as authors from Northern Ireland like Deirdre Madden Polly Devlin and Mary Morrissy These writers whose voices have frequently been sidelined or misunderstood because they write against the grain of their country's cultural heritage finally receive their due in this important contribution to Irish and gender studies

Loving Him Kate O'Riordan, 2005 Connie and Matt Wilson once childhood sweethearts have worked hard to achieve their dreams their gracious London home their 3 beloved sons and a stable trusting marriage When they go to Rome for a romantic weekend they enjoy a break all married couples dream of exploring eating making love But on their last day Matt tells Connie that he is not coming home with her She returns to London and their three sons alone Loving Him is the story of what happens when the love of your life bumps into the love of his life the one before you the one he never got over Secure happy unquestioning a random encounter sets off a chain of events that turns a woman's existence from blissful domesticity to dangerous obsession The Memory Stones Kate O'Riordan,2004-09-28 Nell a rare female Master of Wine enjoys an uncluttered and elegant life in Paris sharing her days with Lulu the cantankerous poodle her best friend bequeathed to her as a joke on her deathbed and sharing her passion for wine with Henri her lover and married vineyard owner Until a phone call shatters the peace of her carefully constructed world It is her daughter's neighbour in Ireland with news so worrying that Nell can no longer avoid the inevitable She must return home for the first time in over thirty years But why has it taken Nell so long to swap the boulevards of Paris for the green fields of Western Ireland And why didn't she even go back for her own mother's funeral A poignant and gripping exploration of love loss and the nature of memory itself THE MEMORY STONES is a moving study of the intricacies of mother daughter relationships observed with razor sharp precision and great tenderness

Women and Exile in Contemporary Irish Fiction Ellen McWilliams,2013-04-09 Women and Exile in Contemporary Irish Fiction examines how contemporary Irish authors have taken up the history of the Irish woman migrant It situates these writers work in relation to larger discourses of exile in the Irish literary tradition and examines how they engage with the complex history of Irish emigration Literary visions of multicultural Ireland Pilar Villar-Argaiz,2016-05-16 Now available in paperback this pioneering collection of essays deals with the topic of how Irish literature responds to the presence of non Irish immigrants in Celtic Tiger and post Celtic Tiger Ireland The book assembles an international group of 18 leading and prestigious academics in the field of Irish studies from both sides of the Atlantic including Declan Kiberd Anne Fogarty and Maureen T Reddy amongst others Key areas of discussion are what does it mean to be multicultural and what are the implications of this condition for contemporary Irish writers How has literature in Ireland responded to inward migration Have Irish writers reflected in their work either explicitly or implicitly the existence of migrant communities in Ireland If so are elements of Irish traditional culture and community maintained or transformed What is the social and political efficacy of these intercultural artistic visions Bloomsbury Essential Guide for Reading Groups Susan

Osborne,2009-01-01 A book club gives the opportunity to meet up with friends and wake the brain up a bit with lively and often quite aggressive discussion Dawn French How do you keep your reading groups discussions lively and focussed If you want to gain new insight into literature and share your passion with friends this book offers readers guides for 75 of the very best reads guaranteed to provoke spirited debate Each of the readers guides includes a summary of the book a brief author biography discussion points to spark debate and a set of titles for further reading that deal with similar themes A background section provides pointers to more material about the book online and as well as further thought provoking material Where did the author come from What made them write the book How did the context in which they wrote influence them If you'd like further insight debate discussion and analysis to underpin your understanding and enjoyment of reading then look no

Two Irelands Rebecca Pelan, 2005-06-27 The very different histories of the North and South are reflected in their literature While women in the Republic of Ireland have tended to write about social issues sexism crime unemployment and domestic violence women in Northern Ireland focused on their society's historical tension and primarily nationalist and unionist politics However Pelan maintains that feminist ideology has provided contemporary Irish women with an alternate political stance that incorporates gender and nationality ethnicity and allows them to move beyond the usual binaries of politics history and language Irish and English In an analysis enriched by a sophisticated but accessible engagement with contemporary feminist and gender theory Pelan concludes that Irish women's writing whether at the community or mainstream level North or South consistently articulates political issues of direct relevance to the lives of Irish women today As a result such work retains close links with the initial impetus of the second wave of feminism as a political movement and questions the legitimacy of long standing social religious and political conventions From within the framework provided by this second wave argues Pelan Irish women can critique certain masculine ideologies nationalist unionist imperialist and capitalist without forfeiting their own sense of gender and national or ethnic identity The book's significance lies in its placement of women's writing in the center of contemporary political discourse in Ireland and in ensuring that the writing from this period much of it long out of print continues to exist as sociological as well as literary records It will be of interest to a general and scholarly audience especially those in the fields of contemporary Irish writing feminism and literary history
