The Shifted By Natalie Carlisle:

Elipsions Gregory Morrison, 2011-10-12 Caleb's mother dies suddenly from brain cancer. While mourning the loss of his much-loved mother, he begins to suffer vivid terrifying dreams. Worse, when he wakes, he finds himself scraped, bruised, and bleeding from the frightening experiences in his dream world. During the nightmare, Caleb receives a mysterious message that says he must find Elise Sullivan Magaskawa, a young woman in serious trouble who lives in Devils Lake, North Dakota. Caleb knows he'll be dead if he goes back to sleep, so he skips his high school final exams. He finds Elise and learns she's running away from an abusive stepfather and his psychologist friend who want to keep her silence by admitting her into a mental institution. After escaping with Elise, Caleb's dreams ensue, causing severe burns to Caleb's body while specific directions to locate and unite with Derrick are received. The clock is ticking on Caleb's survival, but he's given relief and the most extraordinary love imaginable from Aubrey. They're embroiled in a race to locate their final group member and to attempt to discover the reason they've been brought together. Throughout the journeys, this unlikely band of teens, with a rape victim, drug dealer, isolated mama's boy, prom queen, and a schizophrenic, must each battle his or her own demons mentally as well as physically, which takes every ounce of their special abilities to overcome. Their religions are challenged, racial barriers crossed, self-images shattered as they embark upon alternate perceptions of life and death as well as alternate energy sources that just might save mankind and our planet Earth.

The Shifted Natalie Carlisle, 2014-01-01 Kale Rollins' life has become a living nightmare. As if it wasn't awkward enough being an adopted normal kid in a family of purebred shapeshifters, he was now being transferred to a new school made solely for their kind. And it gets worse. He must attend this school under the pretense that he too is a shapeshifter in order to babysit his fourteen-year-old brother who has suddenly shifted a year earlier than expected. However, with the new-found knowledge that shapeshifting families are mysteriously disappearing, Kale wonders if attending Emerson Fox Academy is actually as safe as it seems. Before he even reaches the school, he finds himself in the middle of a feud that could become life-threatening to him and his brother. Unexpectedly, friendships are formed as he chooses a side, so are enemies. There is one girl, though, who through it all, makes him want to stay. Except the closer he gets to Lavallette Waters, the harder it is to keep up his facade. As secrets start to unravel around him, Kale wonders what will happen next. Will babysitting his brother be the death of him? Can he really trust Lavallette? And how much more time do they have before someone they care about disappears? Understanding Television Texts Phil Wickham, 2007-07-15
Understanding TV Texts examines the debates that define television and looks at how they can be applied to the study of particular programmes.

American Remakes of British Television Carlen Lavigne, Heather Marcovitch, 2011-03-31 Ever since Norman Lear remade the BBC series Till Death Us Do Part into All in the Family, American remakes of British television shows have become part of the American cultural fabric. Indeed, some of the programs currently said to exemplify American tastes and attitudes from reality programs like American Idol and What Not to Wear to the mock documentary approach of The Office are adaptations of successful British shows

Carlen Lavigne and Heather Marcovitch's American Remakes of British Television Transformations and Mistranslations is a multidisciplinary collection of essays that focuses on questions raised when a foreign show is adapted for the American market What does it mean to remake a television program What does the process of Americanization entail What might the success or failure of a remade series tell us about the differences between American and British producers and audiences This volume examines British to American television remakes from 1971 to the present The American remakes in this volume do not share a common genre format or even level of critical or popular acclaim What these programs do have in common however is the sense that something in the original has been significantly changed in order to make the program appealing or accessible to American audiences The contributors display a multitude of perspectives in their essays British to American television remakes as a whole are explained in terms of the market forces and international trade that make these productions financially desirable Sanford and Son is examined in terms of race and class issues Essays on Life on Mars and Doctor Who stress television's role in shaping collective cultural memories An essay on Queer as Folk explores the romance genre and also talks about differences in national sexual politics An examination of The Office discusses how the American remake actually endorses the bureaucracy that the British original satirized

Seduced by Twilight Natalie Wilson, 2014-01-10 Stephenie Meyer's Twilight saga has maintained a tight grip on the contemporary cultural imagination This timely and critical work examines how the Twilight series offers addictively appealing messages about love romance sex beauty and body image and how these charged themes interact with cultural issues regarding race class gender and sexuality Through a careful analysis of the texts the fandom and the current socio-historical climate this work argues that the success of the Twilight series stems chiefly from Meyer's negotiation of cultural mores
