Handbook of Water and Wastewater Systems Protection Robert M. Clark, Simon Hakim, Avi Ostfeld, 2011-09-01

Following the events of 9 11 the Administrator of the US Environmental Protection Agency created the Water Protection Task Force WPTF which identified water and wastewater systems as a major area of vulnerability to deliberate attack The WPTF suggested that there are steps that can be taken to reduce these vulnerabilities and to make it as difficult as possible for potential saboteurs to succeed The WPTF recommended that be scrutinized with renewed vigor to secure water and wastewater systems against these possible threats It also recommended that water and wastewater systems have a response plan in place in the event an act of terrorism occurs The WPTF identified water distribution networks as an area of special vulnerability and highlighted the need for rapid on line detection methods that are accurate and have a wide detection range As a result of these recommendations novel technologies from various fields of science and engineering are now addressing water security issues and water and wastewater utilities are looking for innovative solutions Once such technologies are available there will be a rapid implementation process that will present many business opportunities for the private sector However in addition to terrorist threats water and wastewater systems are inherently vulnerable to natural disasters such as earthquakes and floods This volume will address the problems associated with both intended terrorist attacks and natural disasters affecting water or wastewater systems The book is divided into parts based on the kinds of threats facing water and wastewater systems 1 a direct attack on water and wastewater infrastructure storage reservoirs and distribution and collection networks 2 a cyber attack disabling the functionality of the water and wastewater systems or taking over control of key components which might result in system failures and 3 a deliberate chemical or biological contaminant injection at one of the water distribution system s nodes It will examine unique plans technological and managerial innovations for protecting such systems and includes descriptions of projects that were implemented to respond to natural disasters Case studies are presented that discuss existing projects and evaluate their performance with an emphasis on providing guidelines and techniques that can be implemented by water and wastewater planners and managers to deal with natural and manmade disasters should they occur The Invisible Girl Sandy Dixon, 2008 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,

The Polish Climate in the European Context: An Historical Overview Rajmund Przybylak, Jacek Majorowicz, Rudolf Brázdil, Marek Kejan, 2009-12-03 Reconstruction of the climate variability of the past 500 years is a topic of great scientific interest not only in global terms but also at regional and local levels This period is interesting on account of the increasing influence of anthropogenic forcing and its overlap with natural factors The Polish Climate in the European Context An Historical Overview summarises the results of research into climate variability based on a combination of instrumental documentary dendrochronological and borehole data from Poland The first part of the book provides a Central European perspective of research in these fields which forms the general background for a presentation of the state of the art of climatic change studies in Poland during the past 500 years Part 2 This is followed by a selection of papers dealing mainly with different aspects of climate variability in Poland and Central Europe Part 3 This book is a valuable tool integrating Polish Central and Eastern European climate research into the global context It is as such a must for climate researchers worldwide Gaston Demare Royal Meteorological Institute of Belgium This volume marks a significant step forward in our understanding of European climatic history Christian Pfister University of Bern Moody's Bank and Finance Manual ,2000

Craig Winston LeCroy's Handbook of Evidence Based Child and Adolescent Treatment Manuals is a forceful combination of the two approaches as he gathers fifteen varied treatment manuals and brief summaries of the research supporting each to ensure that practitioners will truly understand how to implement the treatments they are using. A completely revised and expanded edition of the handbook's first edition, this is an essential guide to some of the best programs for helping children and teens. Each chapter begins with an explanatory section that discusses the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of the programs. The treatment manual follows, leading readers through sessions with specific details about conducting the treatment that have been refined and improved through extensive testing and research. Organized into three sections: the major clinical disorders, social problems confronting children and teens, and preventive interventions, the Handbook brings together some of the most esteemed researcher-practitioners in the child and adolescent field. The book presents an impressive variety of innovative treatment programs and techniques, including the SiHLE program intended to prevent problems confronting children and teens and preventive interventions. The Handbook brings together some of the most esteemed researcher-practitioners in the child and adolescent field. The book presents an impressive variety of innovative treatment programs and techniques, including the SiHLE program intended to prevent HIV through education and self-esteem building, the Children of Divorce Intervention Program, a therapy for younger children stressing resilience and skill building, and Strengths Oriented Family Therapy, which reaches out to substance-involved adolescents and their families. The Handbook of Evidence Based Child and Adolescent Treatment Manuals is an indispensable reference for researchers, graduate students, and practitioners working with children and adolescents in a multitude of settings, from schools and juvenile correction centers to group homes and family service agencies.
