Lines of Latitude and Longitude

Introducing the Globes

Show with students the definition for the equator. Cartographers have also created other imaginary lines that run parallel to the equator. They are called lines of latitude. Show students that lines of latitude measure the distance north and south of the equator. Lines of latitude north of the equator are called lines of latitude north (°N), and lines of latitude south of the equator are called lines of latitude south (°S). Tell students that the distance north and south of the equator is measured in degrees north (°N) and degrees south (°S). Tell students that the location of the South Pole
