Montserrat Dueñas Patón, Ignacio García-Estévez, 2020-11-20 The food processing industries produce millions of tons of losses and waste during processing which are becoming a grave economic environmental and nutritional problem. Fruit vegetable and food industrial solid waste include leaves, peels, pomace, skins, rinds, pulp, stems, seeds, twigs, and spoiled fruits and vegetables among other waste released in food production which can be formed during cleaning, processing, cooking, and or packaging. These wastes are characterized by being an important source of bioactive compounds such as phenolic compounds, dietary fibers, polysaccharides, vitamins, carotenoids, pigments, and oils among others. These bioactive compounds are closely associated with beneficial effects on human health. These by products can be exploited in different industries: in food industries for the development of functional ingredients and or new foods or natural additives; in pharmaceutical industries for medicinal healthcare or cosmetic products; in agricultural industries as fertilizers or animal feed; and in chemical industries among others. The reutilization of these by products will ensure the sustainable development of food industries and reduce their environmental impact which will contribute to the fight against environmental problems leading to potential mitigation of climatic change. Therefore the determination of bioactive compound composition in agricultural and food waste and the production of extracts containing these compounds is the first step towards its reutilization.
