Quetchenbach, 2000 Many poets writing after World War II have found the individual focus of contemporary poetics poorly suited to making statements directed at public issues and public ethics The desire to invest such individualized poetry with greater cultural authority presented difficulties for Vietnam protest poets for example and it has been a particular challenge for nature writers in the Thoreau tradition who have attempted to serve as advocates for the natural world Examining the implications of this dilemma Bernard W Quetchenbach locates the poets Robert Bly Gary Snyder and Wendell Berry within two traditions the American nature writing tradition and the newer tradition of contemporary poetics He compares the work of two other twentieth century poets Robinson Jeffers and Theodore Roethke to illustrate how the contemporary shift toward a poetics focused on the poet's life has affected portrayals of nature and the public voice in poetry Turning back to the work of Bly Snyder and Berry Quetchenbach assesses their attempts to reinvent the public voice in the context of contemporary poetics and what effect these attempts have had on their work He argues that these poets have learned from their postwar generation techniques for adapting a personalized poetics to environmental advocacy In addition to modifying what critics have called the poetics of immediacy these poets have augmented their poetic output with prose and identified themselves with long standing traditions of poetic ethical and spiritual authority In doing so Bly Snyder and Berry have attempted to solve not only a problem inherent in contemporary poetics but also the larger problem of the role of the poet in a society that does not recognize poetry While it would be an overstatement to suggest that these three figures have found a place for the poet in American life they have reached audiences that extend beyond traditional readers of poetry At the end of the twentieth century Quetchenbach concludes poets have begun to identify and direct their writing to specific audiences defined less by aesthetic preferences and more by a shared interest in and dedication to the work's subject matter Whether revealing a disturbing trend for poetry or an encouraging one for environmentalism and other political causes it is one of many provocative conclusions Quetchenbach draws from his examination of postwar nature poetry The Secret Teachings of Plants Stephen Harrod Buhner, 2004-10-27 Ancient and indigenous peoples have insisted their knowledge of plant medicines came from the plants themselves perceived through a heart centered mode of perception not trial and error experimentation Author Stephen Harrod Buhner explores this heart centered mode of perception helping readers learn about the medicinal uses of plants and gather information directly from the heart of Nature Apocalyptic Grace Stephen Powell, 2011-05-20 Here is a unique exploration of the five eras or Worlds of cultural socioeconomic psychological spiritual evolution Stephen Powell a seasoned anthropologist and psychotherapist illuminates the hunter gatherer horticultural agrarian and industrial technological epochs in unexpectedly fresh and timely ways Foremost the diversity of these Worlds is still within us all World One reaching back to 50 000 BCE was a time of widely accepted shamanic assumptions World Two 10 000 to 3500 BCE developed small scale horticulture and tribal cohesion but also unprecedented social conformity World Three from about 3500 BCE experienced the global rise of caste structured hierarchies with the World Religions as cultural compensation Beginning in the 1600s World Four developed a mechanistic secularized worldview accentuated by individualism popular culture and a capitalist agenda Finally Powell describes the beginnings of a new fifth set of world assumptions a world without borders Here we may start to integrate
