the ICC Statute To facilitate the operationalization of domestic implementation the book explores the technical options for incorporating the definition into domestic law the geographical ambit of domestic jurisdiction most notably universal jurisdiction as well as legal challenges such as immunities The book is aimed primarily at researchers and States with an interest in the domestic implementation of international criminal law but those already working in the field should also find much of interest contained within it Dr Annegret Hartig is Program Director of the Global Institute for the Prevention of Aggression and worked as a researcher at the University of Hamburg where she obtained her doctoral degree in international criminal law

Hunt,2004-11-01 This volume is the first full length study of penitential tears of contrition since Hausherr's in 1944 It traces its exposition in the early eastern Christian tradition through detailed analysis of Greek and Syriac texts by Klimakos Ephrem Isaac and Symeon the New Theologian It suggests why such weeping is for these writers a joyful as well as a sobering experience and it places their writings in their historical and geographical context giving some lexicographical background Issues of religious anthropology and the unusual choice of a female exegete in the person of the sinful woman Luke 7 36 50 are considered The conclusion points the way to an appropriate theological interpretation of these teachings and highlights modern non monastic examples of joy bearing penitent grief

The Waning Sword: Conversion Imagery and Celestial Myth in 'Beowulf' Edward Pettit, 2020-01-14 The image of a giant sword melting stands at the structural and thematic heart of the Old English heroic poem Beowulf This meticulously researched book investigates the nature and

Representing Beasts in Early Medieval England and Scandinavia Michael D. J. Bintley, Thomas J. T. Williams, 2015 Essays on the depiction of animals birds and insects in early medieval material culture from texts to carvings to the landscape itself For people in the early Middle Ages the earth air water and ether teemed with other beings Some of these were sentient creatures that swam flew slithered or stalked through the same environments inhabited by their human contemporaries Others were objects that a modern beholder would be unlikely to think of as living things but could yet be considered to possess a vitality that rendered them potent Still others were things half glimpsed on a dark night or seen only in the mind s eye strange beasts that haunted dreams and visions or inhabited exotic lands beyond the compass of everyday knowledge This book discusses the various ways in which the early English and Scandinavians thought about and represented these other inhabitants of their world and considers the multi faceted nature of the relationship between people and beasts Drawing on the evidence of material culture art language literature place names and landscapes the studies presented here reveal a world where the boundaries between humans animals monsters and objects were blurred and often permeable and where to represent the bestial could be to hold a mirror to the self Michael D J Bintley is Senior Lecturer in Medieval Literature at Canterbury Christ Church University Thomas J T Williams is a doctoral researcher at UCL s Institute of Archaeology Contributors No 1 Adams John Baker Michael D J Bintley Sue Brunning L szl S ndor Chardonnens Della Hooke Eric Lacey Richard North Marijane Osborn Victoria Symons Thomas J Williams
