

WILLOW

JULIA HOBAN

Integrating Young Adult Literature through the Common Core Standards Rachel L. Wadham,Jon W.

Ostenson,2013-01-07 This book advocates for a stronger role for young adult literature in ELA classrooms compellingly documenting how this body of work meets both the needs of adolescent students and the demands of the common core for complex texts and tasks Integrating Young Adult Literature through the Common Core Standards provides a compelling template for teachers that uses young adult literature and inquiry learning to meet students needs and the demands of the common core standards The first part of the book addresses the widely adopted common core state standards by examining closely the standards model of text complexity and demonstrating how young adult literature can fill the requirements of this model The second part provides theoretical discussions and analysis of the standards as well as concrete applications of young adult literature within the classroom in order to give school professionals a comprehensive understanding of how young adult literature and the standards can work together The book empowers schools and teachers to make intelligent informed decisions about texts and instructional practices that benefit their students Finally the authors explore a powerful teaching approach that integrates current understandings about learning young adult literature and the common core standards in a way that will facilitate greater learning and understanding in English classrooms

Scarred Julia

Hoban,2010 Seven months ago on a rainy March night Willow s parents drank too much wine at dinner and asked her to drive them home But they never made it Willow lost control of the car and both of her parents were killed Now seventeen Willow is living with her older brother who can barely speak to her She has left behind her old home friends and school But Willow has found a way to survive to numb the new reality of her life She is secretly cutting herself And then she meets Guy a boy as sensitive and complicated as she is When Guy discovers Willow s secret he pulls her out of the solitary world she s created for herself and into a difficult intense and potentially life changing relationship

Teaching Young Adult

Literature Judith A. Hayn,Jeffrey S. Kaplan,Amanda L. Nolen,Heather A. Olvey,2015-11-12 The authors who contributed to this text believe that young adult literature YAL can meet the Common Core s push to include literacy across content areas as well as meet the standards in creative and effective ways This text is intended to give educators a resource to aid them in creating a literacy curriculum The included chapters written by experts from different universities across the country offer a variety of methods for using YAL to meet the standards while connecting with students Following a framework first chapter introducing the importance of YAL and discussing its relevance other authors tackle various ways to teach it Each chapter may suggest different strategies and rationales for utilizing YAL but each shares a common purpose with the others to promote the efficacy of YAL to engage students while at the same time meeting the rigorous standards set forth by the Common Core

Madwomen in Social Justice Movements, Literatures, and Art Jessica Lowell Mason,Nicole

Crevar,2023-01-10 Madwomen in Social Justice Movements Literatures and Art boldly reasserts the importance of the Madwoman more than four decades after the publication of Sandra Gilbert and Susan Gubar's seminal work in feminist literary criticism The Madwoman in the Attic. Since Gilbert and Gubar's work was published the Madwoman has reemerged to do important work rock the academic boat and ignite social justice agency inside and outside of academic spaces moving beyond the literary context that defined the Madwoman in the late 20th century. In this dynamic collection of essays scholars, creative writers and Mad activists come together to re-define the Madwoman in pluralistic and expansive ways and to realize new potential in Mad agency. This collection blazes new directions of thinking through Madness as a gendered category comprised of a combination of creative works that re-imagine the figure of the Madwoman, speeches in which Mad-identifying artists and writers reclaim the label of Madwoman and scholarly essays that articulate ambitious theories of the Madwoman. The collection is an interdisciplinary scholarly resource that will appeal to multiple academic fields including literary studies, disability studies, feminist studies and Mad studies. Additionally, the work contributes to the countermovement against colonial, sexist, patriarchal and institutional social practices that continue to silence women and confine them to the metaphorical attic. Appealing to a broad audience of readers, Madwomen in Social Justice Movements: Literatures and Art is a cutting edge inquiry into the implications of Madness as a theoretical tool in which dissenting, deviant and abnormal women and gender-nonconforming writers, artists and activists open the door to Mad futurities. Illness and Image Sander L.

Gilman, 2018-01-16 The humanities in higher education are too often labeled as impractical and are not usually valued in today's marketplace. Yet in professional fields such as the health sciences, interest in what the humanities can offer has increased. Advocates claim the humanities offer health care professionals greater insight into how to work with those who need their help. Illness and Image introduces undergraduates and professionals to the medical humanities using a series of case studies beginning with debates about male circumcision from the ancient world to the present to the meanings of authenticity in the face transplantation arena. The case studies address the interpretation of mental illness as a disability and the new category of mental illness self-harm. Sander L. Gilman shows how medicine projects such categories existence into the historical past to show that they are not bound in time and space and therefore are real. Illness and Image provides students and researchers with models and possible questions regarding categories often assumed to be either trans-historical or objective, making it useful as a textbook. Transcript of the Enrollment Books New York (N.Y.). Elections, 1944 Where She Went Gayle Forman, 2012-04-17 Adam, now a rising rock star, and Mia, a successful cellist, reunite in New York and reconnect after the horrific events that tore them apart when Mia almost died in a car accident three years earlier. The 39 Deaths of Adam Strand Gregory Galloway, 2013-02-21 Adam Strand isn't depressed. He's just bored. Disaffected. So he kills himself 39 times. No matter the method, Adam can't seem to stay dead; he awakes after each suicide, alive and physically unharmed, more determined to succeed and undeterred by others' concerns. But when his self-contained, self-absorbed path is diverted, Adam is struck by the reality that life is an ever-expanding web of impact and forged connections and that nothing not even death can sever those bonds In this hyper edgy coming of age story told in stark arresting prose Alex Award winning author Gregory Galloway finds hope and understanding in the blackest humor
