The Deaths of Others John Tirman, 2011-05-15 Americans are greatly concerned about the number of our troops killed in battle 33 000 in the Korean War 58 000 in Vietnam 4 500 in Iraq and rightly so But why are we so indifferent often oblivious to the far greater number of casualties suffered by those we fight and those we fight for This is the compelling largely unasked question John Tirman answers in The Deaths of Others Between six and seven million people died in Korea Vietnam and Iraq alone the majority of them civilians And yet Americans devote little attention to these deaths Other countries however do pay attention and Tirman argues that if we want to understand why there is so much anti Americanism around the world the first place to look is how we conduct war We understandably strive to protect our own troops but our rules of engagement with the enemy are another matter From atomic weapons and carpet bombing in World War II to napalm and daisy cutters in Vietnam and beyond our weapons have killed large numbers of civilians and enemy soldiers Americans however are mostly ignorant of these methods believing that American wars are essentially just necessary and good Trenchant and passionate The Deaths of Others forces readers to consider the tragic consequences of American military action not just for Americans but especially for those we fight against Atrocity Fabrication and Its Consequences A.B. Abrams,2023-03-15 Atrocity fabrication the invention and reporting of atrocities committed by an adversary without knowledge that they ever occurred has a centuries long history at the heart of propaganda and power politics as an effective means of moving public and international opinion Its use can provide pretext for a range of hostile measures against its targets transforming in the public eye wars of unprovoked aggression into wars of liberation of the oppressed or turning blockades to starve enemy civilians into humane efforts to pressure abusive governments under the moralistic label of sanctions As it plays a large and growing role in global conflict in the 21st century understanding atrocity fabrication and the consistent means by and ends to which it has been used has become crucial to comprehending geopolitical events in the present day This book elucidates the seldom explored but central role played by atrocity fabrication in eleven major conflicts from the 1950s to the present day from Korea Vietnam and Cuba during the Cold War to Iraq Libya and the emerging Sino U S cold war more recently It highlights the many variations of atrocity fabrication the strong consistencies in how atrocity fabrication is used and the consequences it has for the populations of the targeted countries The book demonstrates the roles played by media and both government and non governmental organizations in misleading the public as to the actuality of these highly publicized events The emerging trend towards this mode of action and the deep implications this has for world order make an understanding of its history particularly critical

Mistake of Law Annemieke van

Verseveld, 2012-08-28 When a perpetrator of an international crime argues in his defence that he did not realise that he had violated the law is this a reason not to punish him International crimes constitute serious offences and it could be argued that he who commits such an offence must know his act is punishable After all everyone is presumed to know the law However convicting someone who is mistaken about the wrongfulness of his act may be in violation of the principle no punishment without guilt This book investigates when mistake of law should be a reason to exculpate the perpetrator of an international crime It demonstrates that the issue of mistake of law goes to the heart of individual criminal responsibility and therewith contributes to the development of a more systematic approach toward the structure of international offences Valuable for academics and practitioners in the field of International Criminal Law
