Light, Paper, Process Virginia Heckert, 2015-04-14 From its beginnings photography has been shaped by the desire to understand and explore the essence of the medium Light Paper Process features the work of seven artists Alison Rossiter Marco Breuer James Welling Lisa Oppenheim Chris McCaw John Chiara and Matthew Brandt who investigate the possibilities of analog photography by finding innovative surprising and sometimes controversial ways to push light sensitive photographic papers and chemical processing beyond their limits A panoply of practices emerges in the work of these artists Some customize cameras with special lenses or produce images on paper without a camera or film Others load paper rather than film in the camera or create contact printing with sources of light other than the enlarger while still others use expired photographic papers and extraneous materials such as dust and sweat selected to match the particular subject of the photograph All of the artists share a willingness to embrace accident and chance Trial and error contribute to an understanding of the materials and their potential as do the attitudes of underlying curiosity and inventive interrogation The act of making each image is like a performance with only the photographer present The results are stunning This lavish publication accompanies an eponymous exhibition on view at the J Paul Getty Museum from April 14 to September 6 2015

Music and the Functions of the Brain: Arousal, Emotions, and Pleasure Mark Reybrouck, Tuomas Eerola, Piotr Podlipniak, 2018-04-12 Music impinges upon the body and the brain As such it has significant inductive power which relies both on innate dispositions and acquired mechanisms and competencies The processes are partly autonomous and partly deliberate and interrelations between several levels of processing are becoming clearer with accumulating new evidence For instance recent developments in neuroimaging techniques have broadened the field by encompassing the study of cortical and subcortical processing of the music The domain of musical emotions is a typical example with a major focus on the pleasure that can be derived from listening to music Pleasure however is not the only emotion to be induced and the mechanisms behind its elicitation are far from understood There are also mechanisms related to arousal and activation that are both less differentiated and at the same time more complex than the assumed mechanisms that trigger basic emotions It is imperative therefore to investigate what pleasurable and mood modifying effects music can have on human beings in real time listening situations This e book is an attempt to answer these questions Revolving around the specificity of music experience in terms of perception emotional reactions and aesthetic assessment it presents new hypotheses theoretical claims as well as new empirical data which contribute to a better understanding of the functions of the brain as related to musical experience

Questions and Epistemic Stance in Contemporary Spoken British English Andrzej Zuczkowski, Ramona

Bongelli, Ilaria Riccioni, Gill Philip, 2021-03-11 This volume explores a model of epistemic stance according to which speakers can communicate each single piece of information either as known certain or uncertain or unknown It presents a qualitative analysis of extracts from the Spoken British National Corpus 2014 to support the idea that questions come from two distinct epistemic positions the Unknowing and the Uncertain this latter ranges along two poles Not Knowing Whether and Believing In the epistemic continuum Unknowing questions express a lack of knowledge and range from open to closed and dual wh questions On the other hand Uncertain questions express a lack of certainty and range from maximum uncertainty Not

Knowing Whether questions advancing a doubt to minimum uncertainty Believing questions advancing a supposition Both Unknowning and Uncertain questions can be directed either at the answerer's Knowing or Believing position depending on their aim The volume will appeal to scholars concerned with the topic of question design and epistemic stance from a theoretical and analytical perspective as well as those interested in applying these findings in their teaching practice
