Agricultural Extension In Zimbabwe An Introduction:

Agricultural Extension in Zimbabwe Raymond Zvavanyange, 2014-10-06 This book introduces readers to rural advisory services in Zimbabwe. It draws from the operations of government agricultural institutions. Agriculture provides food employment, source of income and security for rural households who comprise over 70 percent of the Zimbabwean population. Zimbabwe's population is estimated at 14 million people against a background of increasing poverty gaps and food insecurity challenges amongst vulnerable groups such as widows and orphans. Agriculture offers a way out of these challenges. A solution in order to increase agricultural development vis-à-vis extension is to provide rural households with timely and quality advisories so that they make informed decisions. Timely and quality advisories are effective extension tools. Because of limited literature on agriculture extension in Zimbabwe, this book is intended for agriculture students in colleges, schools and tertiary institutions intending and pursuing a career in agricultural extension in Africa. ICTs for comparative analysis of 12 case studies in the book these three approaches are thoroughly discussed and their internal and external constraints examined The book starts with an editorial chapter discussing the recent administrative and political developments in Africa as well as the new opportunities which they offer for policies in the field of environment and development The question is brought up whether the recent processes of decentralization democratization and empowerment of local organizations have indeed created new opportunities or that they have only superficially changed the political culture of the countries concerned In the concluding chapter of the book the approaches are contrasted to each other as logical models each with its own potentiality and limitations Conclusions are formulated why the top down approach must result in improvization to escape from failure and why the participatory approach risks to end up into a mixed balance Special attention is given to the conditions and the prospects for the contractual or co management approach which has been introduced into Africa only recently Under certain conditions this approach seems rather promising

 Despite almost four decades and billions of dollars in development activities we are barely in a position to track the changing dynamics of poverty or to define with conviction the processes that entrap the poor in their misery Accounting for about 90% of global poverty rural poverty through transmigration is also a main contributor to urban poverty It is in the rural areas of the world where poverty is most severe in human terms where the hunger hopelessness hardship and despair commonly associated with entrenched poverty are most pronounced where basic health services sanitation educational opportunities and other common amenities are most lacking The alleviation of rural poverty is therefore tantamount to the alleviation of global poverty in its entirety The State of World Rural Poverty offers the first comprehensive look at the economic conditions and prospects of the world's rural poor Innovations as Key to the Green Revolution in Africa Andre Bationo, Boaz Waswa, Jeremiah M. Okeyo, Fredah Maina, Job Maguta Kihara, 2011-08-30 Africa can achieve self sufficiency in food production through adoption of innovations in the agriculture sector Numerous soil fertility and crop production technologies have been generated through research however wide adoption has been low African farmers need better technologies more sustainable practices and fertilizers to improve and sustain their crop productivity and to prevent further degradation of agricultural lands The agricultural sector also needs to be supported by functional institutions and policies that will be able to respond to emerging challenges of globalization and climate change Mobile Africa Rijk van Dijk, Dick Foeken, Mirjam de Bruijn, 2021-07-26 This anthology deals with the complexity variety and experience of all the forms of mobility we witness today in Sub Saharan Africa Three sets of issues are being discussed First the concept of mobility itself is considered and how it is conceived of in distinction from sedentarity Second which forms of mobility can be distinguished not only from the perspective of Western social sciences but also from the perspective of people's own experiences ideas notions etc Social science in Africa has particularly focused on rural urban migration but it is clear that there are many other forms as well Third the concept of mobility concerns not only geographical space but there are other spaces to consider as well In addition to forms of mobility there is a mobility of forms in which the perception of those other spaces plays a crucial role In short the book intends to turn the whole notion of mobility as a supposedly rupturing phenomenon on its head emphasizing that rather through travelling connections are established and continuity is experienced We are challenged to delve into the traveller's mind to think and follow their multi spatial livelihoods and to explore what it means to people if they move in a variety of spaces Enhancing the Use of Crop Genetic Diversity to Manage Abiotic Stress in Agricultural Production Systems Devra Ivy Jarvis, 2006
