Autism Service Delivery Florence D. DiGennaro Reed, Derek D. Reed, 2015-09-09 This volume examines ways in which service delivery to individuals with autism can be improved from both ends of the basic applied research spectrum. It introduces the concept of translational scholarship and examines real world value in developing relevant interventions. Each area of coverage reviews current findings on autism from basic research and then discusses the latest applied research literature to create a roadmap for researchers, clinicians, and scientist practitioners to develop new effective strategies as children, adolescents, and adults with autism continue to learn and grow. Featured coverage includes: Why practice needs science and how science informs practice; The social learning disorder of stimulus salience in autism; Assessment and treatment of problem behaviors associated with transitions; Understanding persistence and improving treatment through behavioral momentum theory; The behavioral economics of reinforcer value; Increasing tolerance for delay with children and adults with autism. Autism Service Delivery is an essential resource for researchers, clinicians, and scientist practitioners and graduate students in the fields of developmental psychology, behavioral therapy, social work, clinical child and school psychology, occupational therapy, and speech pathology.

Artificial Intelligence, Evolutionary Computing and Metaheuristics Xin-She Yang, 2012-07-27 Alan Turing pioneered many research areas such as artificial intelligence, computability, heuristics, and pattern formation. Nowadays, at the information age, it is hard to imagine how the world would be without computers and the Internet. Without Turing's work, especially the core concept of Turing Machine at the heart of every computer, mobile phone, and microchip today, so many things on which we are so dependent would be impossible. 2012 is the Alan Turing year, a centenary celebration of the life and work of Alan Turing. To celebrate Turing's legacy and follow the footsteps of this brilliant mind, we take this golden opportunity to review the latest developments in areas of artificial intelligence, evolutionary computation, and metaheuristics, and all these areas can be traced back to Turing's pioneer work. Topics include: Turing test, Turing machine, artificial intelligence, cryptography, software testing, image processing, neural networks, nature inspired algorithms such as bat algorithm and cuckoo search, and multiobjective optimization and many applications. These reviews and chapters not only provide a timely snapshot of the state of art developments but also provide inspiration for young researchers to carry out potentially ground breaking research in the active diverse research areas in artificial intelligence, cryptography, machine learning, evolutionary computation, and nature inspired metaheuristics. This edited book can serve as a timely reference for graduates, researchers, and engineers in artificial intelligence, computer sciences, computational intelligence, soft computing, optimization, and applied sciences.

Creativity and Innovation Jonathan A. Plucker, 2021-09-03 Creativity and innovation are frequently mentioned as key 21st century skills for career and life success. Indeed, recent research provides evidence that the jobs of the future will increasingly require the ability to bring creative solutions to complex problems. And creativity is often the spice of life, that little extra something that makes the mundane into the interesting making our routines into fresh new approaches to our daily lives Over the past quarter century our understanding of creativity has advanced significantly we know more about what it is and isn't we better understand how to foster it and we have deeper more complex knowledge about how it relates to intelligence leadership personality and other constructs This book brings together some of the world's best thinkers and researchers on creativity innovation and entrepreneurship to provide a comprehensive but highly readable overview of these exciting important topics Aspects of Learning (RLE Edu O) Brian O'Connell, 2012-06-14 The time has passed when learning was identified purely as a process involving the ability to store and recall knowledge and facts and the competence to produce them when required These abilities still seriously concern the potential teacher and this book duly examines them but the whys and the hows of learning and teaching are now considered as important as the implanting of facts for regurgitation at exam time Some children learn more quickly than others some can remember facts more easily and a teacher must ask several fundamental questions in order to understand the factors at work in this learning process Where is knowledge stored Why do we remember some facts and forget others When are we learning new facts and when are we remembering and adapting knowledge to see it in a new light To help answer these and many other questions a number of learning situations typical in most schools are examined the processes at work in the classrooms are examined and then they are both related to different theories of learning The examination of a series of learning processes should not necessarily involve a choice between them and a feature of this volume is its lack of partiality towards any particular teaching method although the teacher and student will draw their own conclusions Journal of the American Medical Association, 1912 Includes proceedings of the association papers read at the annual sessions and lists of current medical literature Guide to Current Medical Literature and General Index of the Journal American Medical Association, 1911 Diagnostic Tests and Answer Sheet, Etc Roberta J.
