Violence in America: A 150-year study of political violence in the United States Hugh Davis Graham, Ted Robert Gurr, 1969 World Geography II Russell S. Spindler, 1967 South Carolina Adventure , Resources in Education , 1998 Doing Race in Social Studies Prentice T. Chandler, 2015-07-01 Race and racism are a foundational part of the global and American experience With this idea in mind our social studies classes should reflect this reality Social studies educators often have difficulties teaching about race within the context of their classrooms due to a variety of institutional and personal factors Doing Race in Social Studies Critical Perspectives provides teachers at all levels with research in social studies and critical race theory CRT and specific content ideas for how to teach about race within their social studies classes The chapters in this book serve to fill the gap between the theoretical and the practical as well as help teachers come to a better understanding of how teaching social studies from a CRT perspective can be enacted The chapters included in this volume are written by prominent scholars in the field of social studies and CRT They represent an original melding of CRT concepts with considerations of enacted social studies pedagogy This volume addresses a void in the social studies conversation about race how to think and teach about race within the social science disciplines that comprise the social studies Given the original nature of this work Doing Race in Social Studies Critical Perspectives is a much needed addition to the conversation about race and social studies education The Chautauquan , 1895 Motivating Students to Learn Jere E. Brophy, 2010-05-26 Written specifically for teachers this book offers a wealth of research based principles for motivating students to learn Its focus on motivational principles rather than motivation theorists or theories leads naturally into discussion of specific classroom strategies Throughout the book these principles and strategies are tied to the realities of contemporary schools and classrooms The author employs an eclectic approach to motivation that shows how to effectively integrate the use of extrinsic and intrinsic strategies Guidelines are provided for adapting motivational principles to group and individual differences and for doing repair work with students who have become discouraged or disaffected learners

Rhetorical Criticism in Communication Studies Georgina Gabor, 2017-11-06 This book focuses on seven entries in Carl R. Burgchardt's Readings in Rhetorical Criticism to which it adds a complementary effort. While maintaining a strategy of ongoing dialogue with both the prospective reader and the texts under scrutiny, the book acknowledges the author's privileged moment of essential identification and represents a step out of the limiting frame of the inherently political character of inquiry. This allows the book to present personal narrative about guidance by specific critics such as Edwin Black, Forbes Hill, Karlyn Khors Campbell, Kenneth Burke, William Lewis, and Raymie McKerrow through the labyrinth of that Leviathan, the public mind. H. Wiczelns The volume mediates a cross-cultural re-conceptualization of academic writing more adequately inscribed within the symbolic border between the consolidated American and other fragile profiles of the discipline of Communication Studies.

The Writing of American History Michael Kraus, Davis D. Joyce, 1990-01-01 Events which become historical, says Michael Kraus, do not live on because of their mere occurrence. They survive when writers re-create them and thus preserve for posterity their otherwise fleeting existence. Paul Revere's ride, for example, might well have vanished from the records had not Longfellow snatched it from approaching oblivion and given it a dramatic spot in American history. Now Revere rides on in spirited passages in our history books. In this way, the recorder of events becomes almost as important as the events themselves. In other words, historiography, the study of historians and their particular contributions to the body of historical records, must not be ignored by those who seriously wish to understand the past. When the first edition of Michael Kraus's Writing of American History was published, a reviewer for the New York Herald Tribune wrote: "No serious study of our national origins and development can afford not to have such an aid as this at his elbow." The book quickly came to be regarded as one of the few truly standard general surveys of American historiography, invaluable as a reference book, as a textbook, and as a highly readable source of information for the interested general reader. This new edition, with coauthor Davis D. Joyce, confirms its position as the definitive work in the field. Concise yet comprehensive, here is an analysis of the writers and writings of American history from the Norse voyages to modern times. The book has its roots in Kraus's pioneering History of American History, published in 1937, a unique and successful attempt to cover in one volume the entire sweep of American historical activity. Kraus revised and updated the book in 1953 when it was published under the present title. Now, once again, the demand for its revision has been met. Davis D. Joyce, with the full cooperation and approval of Kraus, has thoroughly revised and brought up to date the text of the 1953 edition. The clarity and evenhandedness of Kraus's text has been carefully preserved. The last three chapters add entirely new material surveying the massive and complex body of American historical writing since World War II: Consensus American Historical Writing in the 1950s, Conflict American Historical Writing in the 1960s, and Complexity American Historical Writing in the 1970s and Beyond. Michael Kraus, Professor Emeritus at City College of New York, received the Ph.D. from Columbia University and in his long career established himself as one of America's foremost historiographers. Davis D. Joyce is Professor Emeritus of History, East
