Who's the New Kid in Chemistry? John D. Butler, 2013-12-12 Who's the New Kid in Chemistry offers an unprecedented look at student engagement and teacher best practices through the eyes of an educational researcher enrolled as a public high school student Over the course of seventy nine consecutive days John D Butler participates in and observes Rhode Island 2013 Teacher of the Year Jessica M Waters s high school chemistry class documenting his experiences as they unfold Who s the New Kid in Chemistry is a compelling example of what can be accomplished when an educational researcher and teacher collaborate in the classroom This work includes a discussion on flexible homework assignments data driven instruction and thirty teacher best practices This book is an invaluable resource for teachers across all content areas masters and doctoral research method classes and future Teachers of the Year Creating Wicked Students Paul

Hanstedt,2023-07-03 In Creating Wicked Students Paul Hanstedt argues that courses can and should be designed to present students with what are known as wicked problems because the skills of dealing with such knotty problems are what will best prepare them for life after college As the author puts it this book begins with the assumption that what we all want for our students is that they be capable of changing the world When a student leaves college we want them to enter the world not as drones participating mindlessly in activities to which they ve been appointed but as thinking deliberative beings who add something to society There s a lot of talk in education these days about wicked problems problems that defy traditional expectations or knowledge problems that evolve over time Zika ISIS political discourse in the era of social media To prepare students for such wicked problems they need to have wicked competencies the ability to respond easily and on the fly to complex challenges Unfortunately a traditional education that focuses on content and skills often fails to achieve this sense of wickedness Students memorize for the test prepare for the paper practice the various algorithms over and over again but when the parameters or dynamics of the test or the paper or the equation change students are often at a loss for how to adjust This is a course design book centered on the idea that the goal in the college classroom in all classrooms all the time is to develop students who are not just loaded with content but capable of using that content in thoughtful deliberate ways to make the world a better place Achieving this goal requires a top to bottom reconsideration of courses including student learning goals text selection and course structure day to day pedagogies and assignment and project design Creating Wicked Students takes readers through each step of the process providing multiple examples at each stage while always encouraging instructors to consider concepts and exercises in light of their own courses and students Newly Hired Teachers of Science Julie A. Luft,Shannon L. Dubois,2015-12-09 Supporting newly hired science teachers has taken on an increased importance in our schools This book shares the most current information about the status of newly hired science teachers different ways in which to support newly hired science teachers and different research approaches that can provide new information about this group of teachers Chapters in the book are written by those who study the status of beginning science teachers mentor new teachers develop induction programs and research the development of new science teachers Newly Hired Teachers of Science is for administrators who have new science teachers in their schools and districts professionals

Profiles Robert Cassidy,Elizabeth S. Charles,James D. Slotta,Nathaniel Lasry,2019-07-11 This book represents the emerging efforts of a growing international network of researchers and practitioners to promote the development and uptake of evidence based pedagogies in higher education at something a level approaching large scale impact By offering a communication venue that attracts and enhances much needed partnerships among practitioners and researchers in pedagogical innovation we aim to change the conversation and focus on how we work and learn together i e extending the implementation and knowledge of co design methods In this first edition of our Research Topic on Active Learning we highlight two of the three types of publications we wish to promote First are studies aimed at understanding the pedagogical designs developed by practitioners in their own practices by bringing to bear the theoretical lenses developed and tested in the education research community These types of studies constitute the practice pull that we see as a necessary counterbalance to knowledge push in a more productive pedagogical innovation ecosystem based on research practitioner partnerships Second are studies empirically examining the implementations of evidence based designs in naturalistic settings and under naturalistic conditions Interestingly the teams conducting these studies are already exemplars of partnerships between researchers and practitioners who are uniquely positioned as in between straddling the two worlds As a result these publications represent both the rigours of research and the pragmatism of reflective practice In forthcoming editions we will add to this collection a third type of publication design profiles These will present practitioner developed pedagogical designs at varying levels of abstraction to be held to scrutiny amongst practitioners instructional designers and researchers alike We hope by bringing these types of studies together in an open access format that we may contribute to the development of new forms of practitioner researcher interactions that promote co design in pedagogical innovation

Organic Chemistry Education Research into Practice Jay Wackerly,Sarah Zingales,Michael Wentzel,Gautam Bhattacharyya,Brett McCollum,2025-03-25 This Research Topic has three main goals 1 provide a platform for instructors of organic chemistry to showcase evidence based methods and educational theories they have utilized in their classrooms 2 build new and strengthen existing connections between educational researchers and practitioners and 3 highlight how people have used chemical education based research in their teaching practice There are places in the literature dedicated for chemical education research CER however there is not a clear avenue for those that have changed their teaching methods based on published CER and report their experiences Creating this article collection will foster collaboration between chemical education researchers and teachers of organic chemistry This opportunity allows these instructors to share evidence based practices experiences challenges and innovative approaches from CER literature and beyond This Research Topic bridges discipline based education research and the scholarship of teaching and learning which will help advance organic chemistry education and improve student outcomes Portable Technologies Robert Tinker, Joseph Krajcik, 2012-12-06 Education has traditionally studied the world by bringing it into the classroom This can result in situated learning that appears to students to have no relevance outside the classroom Students acquire inert decontextualized knowledge that they cannot apply to real problems The obvious solution to this shortcoming is to reverse the situation and bring the classroom to the phenomena to learn in a rich real world context The problem with the real world is that it is complex and filled with interactions that are hard to sort out The editors and authors believe that the right tools might help students with this sorting process and result in learning in rich contexts This book is an account of a series of experiments designed to explore the validity of this insight
