Isabel Allende's House of the Spirits Trilogy Karen Wooley Martin, 2010

The source of the narrative energy that creates such absorbing stories Allende's very popular novels have attracted both critical approval and opprobrium often at the expense of genuine analysis This sophisticated study explores the narrative architecture of Allende's House of the Spirits 1982 Daughter of Fortune 1999 and Portrait in Sepia 2000 as a trilogy proposing that the places created in these novels subvert the patriarchal norms that have governed politics sexuality and ethnicity Rooted in the Foucauldian premise that the history of space is essentially the history of power and supported by Susan Stanford Friedman's cultural geographies of encounter as well as Gloria Anzaldúa's study of borderlands this study shows that by rejecting traditional spatial hierarchies Allende's trilogy systematically deterritorializes the elite while shifting the previously marginalized to the physical and thematic centers of her works This movement provides the narrative energy which draws the reader into Allende's universe and sustains the good story for which she has been universally acclaimed other fire prevention technologies in containing deadly blazes has led to a sort of historical amnesia about the very risks they were supposed to reduce Asbestos and Fire is an important contribution to a larger debate that considers how the risks of technological solutions should be evaluated

Hope for the Earth Ernst M. Conradie, 2005-05-18 Hope for the Earth explores the viability of an eschatological approach to an ecological theology spirituality and praxis in the South African context The basic intuition of such an eschatological approach is that an environmental praxis can only be empowered on the basis of an adequate understanding of Christian hope Despair in the face of environmental destruction will inevitably lead to a spirit of resignation Where then can a vision of hope that includes hope for the earth be found The author proposes a road map for eschatology based on the observation that eschatology has traditionally responded to three aspects of the human predicament namely 1 the evil effects of sin 2 the problem of finitude and transience and 3 the limitations of human power and knowledge in space Part A This analysis is used to fathom the depths of despair as a result of environmental destruction Part B The Biblical roots and subsequent history of Christian eschatology are discussed briefly Part C Recent contributions in Christian eschatology ecological theology cosmology and South African expressions of hope are explored in depth in search of a vision of hope that includes hope for the earth itself Part D The eschatological road map is used to develop a vision of hope for the earth on the basis of a theology of life life amidst death and destruction life beyond death and eternal life in the presence of God Part E Finally the implications of this vision for an ecological ethos spirituality and praxis in the South African context are indicated Part F
