Handbook of Counseling and Counselor Education Mary Olufunmilayo Adekun, 2019-07-23 This comprehensive handbook provides counselors in training, counselor educators, and professional counselors with the latest information on major contemporary issues impacting the field. The design of the book is both conceptual and practical, reflecting current trends and issues from the perspective of expert counselor educators and providing an up-to-date discussion of the importance of multicultural awareness and skills. The book is split into helpful sections covering a range of areas including social and cultural diversity, neuroscience, risk prevention in counseling, writing and publishing, research, and career development. Grounded in contemporary research and aligned with the 2016 CACREP core content areas, the Handbook of Counseling and Counselor Education is an indispensable resource for both graduate-level trainees and professional counselors alike.

School Counseling for Black Male Student Success in 21st Century Urban Schools Malik S. Henfield, Ahmad R. Washington, 2015-11-01 Discussions and research related to the salience of Black male student needs and development in relation to their general success and well-being is well documented in many fields. Indeed, many studies have found that healthy masculine identity development is associated with a number of positive outcomes for males in general, including Black males. In school counseling literature, however, this discussion has been relatively absent, particularly regarding those students living in urban contexts. Indeed, research devoted to the study of Black males in the school counseling literature focuses almost exclusively on race and issues associated with its social construction, with only cursory, if any, attention given to their masculine identity development as a function of living in urban communities and attending urban schools. Based on this lack of information, it is probably a safe assumption that intentional, systematic, culturally relevant efforts to assist Black males in developing healthy achievement and masculine identities based on their unique personal, social, academic experiences and future career goals are not being applied by school counselors concerned with meeting students' needs. School counselors are in a unique position, nonetheless, to lend their considerable expertise, insights, training, and skills to improving life outcomes among Black males, a population who are consistently in positions of risk according to a number of quality-of-life indicators. Without knowledge and awareness of Black males' masculine identity development in urban areas, coupled with the requisite skills to influence the myriad factors that enhance and impede healthy development in such environments, they are missing out on tremendous opportunities which other professions appear to understand and quite frankly seem to take more seriously. As such, this book proposes to accomplish two specific goals:

1. Highlight the plight of Black males with specific emphasis on the ecological components of their lives in relation to current school culture and trends.
2. Encourage school counselors to give more thought to Black male identity development that takes into consideration differential experiences in society as a whole and schools in particular as a function of the intersection of their race as well as their gender.

The first rationale for this book, then, is to highlight the plight of Black males with specific emphasis on the ecological components of their lives in relation to current school culture and trends, e.g., standards-based accountability practices in urban environments However I recognize the role of school counselors has never been fully integrated into educational reform programs As such their positions are often unregulated and determined by people in positions of power who do not understand their training job specific standards and thus potential impact on the lives of Black male students As a result their vast potential to develop strong interventions designed to address the myriad racial and masculine factors that serve to enhance and impede Black males academic achievement is often unrealized Therefore the second reason for this special issue is to include the scholarship of professional school counselors and counselor educators with policy change in mind Scholars will be invited to contribute manuscripts that explore race masculinity and academic achievement in relation to the role of school counselors This is designed to encourage school counselors and counselor educators to give more thought to Black male identity development that takes into consideration differential experiences in society as a whole and schools in particular as a function of the intersection of their race as well as their gender
