Chocolate and Health: Friend or Foe? Mauro Serafini,Emilio Jirillo,2018-02-15 In the ancient past cocoa has been appreciated as a high calorie food to boost energy in soldiers and for its undefined medicinal and mystical properties During other times chocolate has been considered as the forbidden food of God a treasure of pleasure for the mind and the soul The overall perception of the consumer for chocolate was of a charming and appealing food with lots of negative aspects related to high sugar content leading to consider chocolate as junk food for its obesigen calories Recently in association with the renewed interest of nutrition science in alternative source of health promoting foods and ingredients a large body of research has been conducted to unravel the pro and cons of cocoa in relation to human health Epidemiological evidences indicate that cocoa consumption helps preventing cardiovascular disease for its high content in bioactive flavonoids Clinical trials show that chocolate consumption might improve vascular function decreasing platelet aggregation and display an antioxidant and anti inflammatory effect The putative protective action of cocoa seems to be multi factorial and involving different aspects of vascular antioxidant and endothelial function However the mechanisms that account for the benefits of cocoa it is still unclear The aim of this Research Topic is therefore to provide the reader with an objective picture of the state of art on the association between cocoa and health mainly through the evidences of human trials overwhelmingly considered the golden standard for nutritional science The Research Topic will cover the analysis of the manufacturing processes of the chocolate and the antioxidant effects in humans as well as the majority of the putative health effects of chocolate and cocoa such as anti inflammatory properties effect on immunity platelet aggregation blood pressure endothelial function and cognitive behavior Unraveling the functional properties of cocoa will help to understand if the food of God is a primordial gift for the health of mankind Automobile Engineer ,1948 The Automobile Engineer ,1948 Prunes for Breakfast John Searancke,2015-11-28 Many years after the deaths of my parents my aunt handed me a box filled with letters that my father had written to my mother over the period from 1940 to 1945 This was the starting point of a journey for me to rediscover the father I had never really known This is the story of John Searancke s parents told mostly from the side of his father Eddie Searancke from the time of his calling up in early 1940 to his release from a prisoner of war camp in Germany in 1945 thence his return to England to try to pick up the pieces of his old life Nothing could ever be quite the same afterwards The letters take readers through five captivating years telling of the ups and downs the plots and counterplots as Eddie rose through the ranks to end his war as a captain elevated to that rank in the field as his troops faced the formidable might of the SS Panzers The letters also reveal where his battle came to an abrupt end in an orchard surrounded by the enemy and captured after a series of bloody skirmishes as the British army spearheaded its way from the beaches of Normandy The journey as a prisoner across France and Germany in a truck with comrades dying each day may be as hard to read as it is to tell particularly when a new life and new harsh rules had to be learned and rigidly enforced in a prison camp in northern Germany the final destination This is written as part memoir part fictionalised retelling and partly in letter format John draws together all sources to recreate the five years of war and hardship that the letters span
