Small Island States & International Law Carolin König, 2022-12-30

What happens under international law if a state perishes due to rising sea levels without a successor state being created Will the state cease to exist What would this mean for its population Have international law and globalization progressed enough to protect the people thus affected or does international law still depend on the territorial state when it comes to protecting entire populations Exploring these issues this book provides answers to these pressing questions Focusing on small island states as actors in the international community it evaluates the challenges that the state as a subject of international law faces in general from globalization and humanization and what this means for small island states threatened by rising seas Highlighting the experience of the indigenous peoples of small island states as collectives and to the individuals living in these states the book addresses fundamental questions of general state theory and international law drawing on an extensive body of source material As rising sea levels present an increasingly pressing threat to small island states this book highlights the importance of international protection of the individual and the capacity of international organizations to act within existing international law It identifies pressing problems where immediate action is required and argues that in future the responsibility for protecting individuals could shift to the international community if a sinking island state can no longer protect its population on its own

The Council of Europe Stefanie Schmahl, Marten Breuer, 2017 The Council of Europe plays a pivotal role in the promotion and protection of human rights in Europe yet its work is often little understood This volume provides a comprehensive analysis of the work of the Council of Europe and the legal framework within which it operates

The long and short of mental time travel-- self-projection over time-scales large and small James M. Broadway, Claire M. Zedelius, Jonathan W. Schooler, Simon Grondin, 2015-07-02 Researchers working in many fields of psychology and neuroscience are interested in the temporal structure of experience as well as the experience of time at scales of a few milliseconds up to a few seconds as well as days months years and beyond This Research Topic supposes that broadly speaking the field of time psychology can be organized by distinguishing between perceptual and conceptual time scales Dealing with conceptual time mental time travel also called mental simulation self projection episodic semantic memory propection foresight allows humans and perhaps other animals to imagine and plan events and experiences in their personal futures based in large part on memories of their personal pasts as well as general knowledge Moreover contents of human language and thought are fundamentally organized by a temporal dimension enmeshed with it so thoroughly that it is usually expressible only through spatial metaphors But what might such notions have to do with experienced durations of events lasting milliseconds up to a few seconds during the so called present moment of perception action cycle time This Research Topic is organized around the general premise that by considering how mental time travel might scale down to time perception and vice versa no less progress and integrative synthesis within and across scientific domains might be facilitated Bipolar configurations of future and past orientations of the self may be repeated in parallel across conceptual and perceptual time scales subsumed by a general Janus like feedforward feedback system for goal pursuit As an example it is notable that the duality of propection and semantic episodic memory operating at conceptual time scales has an analogue in perception action cycle time namely the interplay of anticipatory attention and working memory Authors from all areas of psychology and neuroscience are encouraged to submit articles of any format accepted by the journal Original Research Methods Hypothesis Theory Reviews etc which might speak to questions about time and temporal phenomena at long and or short time scales

The 1949 Geneva Conventions Andrew Clapham, Paola Gaeta, Marco Sassòli, Iris van der Heijden, 2015

The four Geneva Conventions created in 1949 remain the fundamental basis of contemporary international humanitarian law They protect the wounded on the battlefield those wounded or shipwrecked at sea the treatment of prisoners of war and civilians in a war zone However since they were adopted warfare has changed considerably In this groundbreaking commentary over sixty experts from multiple disciplines within international law investigate how the Geneva Conventions are applied today It places the Conventions in the light of the developing obligations imposed by international law on states and individuals most notably through international human rights law and international criminal law The context in which the Conventions are applied and interpreted has changed considerably since they were first written The borderline between international and non international armed conflicts is not as clear cut as was once thought and is complicated further by the use of armed force mandated by the United Nations and the complex nature of certain internal armed conflicts The influence of other developing branches of international law such as human rights law and refugee law has been considerable The development of international criminal law has breathed new life into multiple provisions of the Geneva Conventions This commentary adopts a thematic approach to provide detailed analysis of each key article taking into account both judicial decisions and state practice Cross cutting chapters on issues such as transnational conflicts and the geographical scope of the Conventions also give readers a full understanding of the impact of the Geneva Conventions in their contemporary context This commentary on four of the most important treaties in international law is unmissable for anyone working in or studying situations of armed conflicts New Governments and the Protection of Foreign Investments under International Law Dr Heba Yehia Abdelmegeed, 2025-03-21 In recent years there has been a tension in international arbitration between legal stability and political change This tension increases significantly when new governments face pressure to enact economic reforms that redress the perceived shortcomings of their predecessors In doing so new governments may have to renegotiate concession contracts terminate monopolies and re nationalise state assets that have been illegitimately transferred into private hands However when foreign investments are affected foreign investors may claim that judicial administrative or legislative measures have violated the core principles of international investment law under investment treaties Indeed foreign investors have previously raised claims against host states in relation to the implementation of treaty obligations Such claims raise the question of how arbitral tribunals should address the tension between legal stability and political change The primary aim of this book is to effectively understand how international law deals with the tension between legal stability and political change Specifically this book seeks to address the vagueness that surrounds determinations on the international liability of new governments in relation to foreign investments under international law Thus the scope of the book covers three main areas of international law 1 the law of state immunity 2 the law of state responsibility and 3 international investment law which is a sub field of international law that integrates both public and private international law Remedies for International Sellers of Goods - Second Edition Center for International Legal Studies (CILS), 2010-01-01 Remedies for International Sellers of Goods Vol 1 2 is a required work for all of those involved in international sales The work includes coverage of 56 countries in North and South America Europe Asia and the Pacific and the Middle East Remedies for International Sellers of Goods includes detailed discussion and analysis for each jurisdiction covered including coverage of the Uniform Law on the International Sales of Goods and an overview of the various types of letter of credit agreements frequently used to finance cross border sales The work also contains the rules applicable to letter of credit arrangements international standard contract clauses the steps required to assure secured sales transactions and the remedies available to those involved in disputes over the cross border sale of goods Analysis and discussion also includes the UNIDROIT Principles of International Commercial Contracts the Uniform Law on the International Sale of Goods and the Uniform Law on the Formation of Contracts for the International Sale of Goods Put quite simply Remedies for International Sellers of Goods is a work that anyone involved with international sales transaction cannot do without Snow Leopards, 2023-10-12 Snow Leopards Second Edition provides a foundational comprehensive overview of the biology ecology and conservation of this iconic species This updated edition incorporates all the recent information from range wide surveys and conservation projects the results of technical and advances particularly in genetics camera
