

- Jackstands for support.
- Oil filter wrench.
- Spout or funnel for pouring fluids.
- Grease gun for chassis lubrication (unless your vehicle is not equipped with any grease fittings).
- Hydrometer for checking the battery (unless equipped with a sealed, maintenance-free battery).
- A container for draining oil and other fluids.
- Rags for wiping up the inevitable mess.

In addition to the above items there are several others that are not absolutely necessary, but handy to have around. These include an equivalent oil absorbent product, like cat litter, and the usual supply of lubricants, antirusts and fluids. This is a basic list for routine maintenance, but only your personal needs and desire can accurately determine your list of tools.

After performing a few projects on the vehicle, you'll be amazed at the other tools and non-tools in your workshop. Some useful household items are: a large turkey baster or siphon, empty coffee cans and ice trays (to store parts), a ball of twine, electrical tape for wiring, small rolls of colored tape for tagging lines or hoses, markers and pens, a note pad, gaff tape (for plugging mouse holes), metal coat hangers or a roll of mechanics wire (to hold things out of the way), dental pick or similar long, pointed probe, a strong magnet, and a small mirror (to see into nooses and under manifolds).

A more advanced set of tools, suitable for take-up work, can be drawn up easily. While the tools are slightly more sophisticated, they need not be outrageously expensive. There are several inexpensive tachidwell meters on the market that are every bit as good for the average mechanic as a professional model. Just be sure that it goes to a least 1200-1500 rpm on the tach scale and that it works on 4, 6 and 8-cylinder engines. The key to these purchases is to make them with an eye towards adaptability and wide range. A basic list of take-up tools could include:

- Tachidwell meter.
- Spark plug wrench and gapping tool.
- Feeler gauges for valve adjustment.
- Timing light.

Fig. 1 All but the most basic procedures will require an assortment of ratchets and sockets.

Fig. 2 In addition to ratchets, a good set of wrenches and hex keys will be necessary.

Fig. 3 A hydraulic floor jack and a set of jackstands are essential for lifting and supporting the vehicle.

Fig. 4 An assortment of pliers, grippers and cutters will be handy for odd rusted parts and stripped bolt heads.

Fig. 5 Various drivers, chisels and prybars are great tools to have in your toolbox.

Fig. 6 Many repairs will require the use of a torque wrench to assure the components are properly fastened.

Fig. 7 Although not always necessary, using specialized brake tools will save time.

Fig. 8 A few inexpensive lubrication tools will make maintenance easier.

Fig. 9 Various pullers, clamps and separator tools are needed for many longer, more complicated repairs.
