

CHAPTER 53: COMMUNITY ECOLOGY

INTERACTIVE QUESTIONS

53.1 The realized niche of species I is smaller than its fundamental niche when it is in competition with species II. In these trees, species II's fundamental and realized niches are the same.

- 53.2 a. Batesian mimicry
b. Mullerian mimicry

- 53.3 a. mutualism: mycorrhizae, flowering plants and pollinators, ants on acacia trees, cellulose-digesting microorganisms in termites and ruminants
b. commensalism: cattle egrets and cattle that flush insects (although cattle may benefit when ectoparasites are eaten or be harmed if the birds make them more obvious to predators)
c. competition: competition of barnacle species
d. predation: animal predators killing prey
e. herbivory: herbivores eating parts of plants
f. parasitism: endo- and ectoparasites feed in or on host
g. disease: pathogens may kill host

53.4 energetic hypothesis

53.5 The +/- cascade that would be needed to end with a decrease in algae would require an increase in zooplankton, which would require a decrease in primary predators caused by an increase in top predators. More top predators could be added to the lake or primary predators could be removed.

- 53.6 a. Soil nitrogen levels begin quite low, but rise due to the symbiotic nitrogen-fixing bacteria of alder.
b. The soil pH changes from about 7.0 to 4.0 as the acid spruce leaves decompose.

53.7 More interspecific interactions would have had time to develop, and this longer span of evolutionary time would allow for more speciation events to have occurred.

- 53.8 a. immigration – large island
b. immigration – small island
c. extinction – small island
d. extinction – large island

The small island equilibrium number is projected down from the intersection of lines b and c. The large island number is projected down the intersection of a and d.

53.8 the individualistic hypothesis: each species appears to have an independent distribution along environmental gradients

53 Community Ecology Answer Guide:

Biology Neil A. Campbell, Jane B. Reece, 2005 Neil Campbell and Jane Reece's BIOLOGY remains unsurpassed as the most successful majors biology textbook in the world. This text has invited more than 4 million students into the study of this dynamic and essential discipline. The authors have restructured each chapter around a conceptual framework of five or six big ideas. An Overview draws students in and sets the stage for the rest of the chapter; each numbered Concept Head announces the beginning of a new concept, and Concept Check questions at the end of each chapter encourage students to assess their mastery of a given concept. New Inquiry Figures focus students on the experimental process, and new Research Method Figures illustrate important techniques in biology. Each chapter ends with a Scientific Inquiry Question that asks students to apply scientific investigation skills to the content of the chapter. Community Ecology Gary George Mittelbach, Brian J. McGill, 2019 Community ecology has undergone a transformation in recent years from a discipline largely focused on processes occurring within a local area to a discipline encompassing a much richer domain of study including the linkages between communities separated in space, metacommunity dynamics, niche and neutral theory, the interplay between ecology and evolution, eco-evolutionary dynamics, and the influence of historical and regional processes in shaping patterns of biodiversity. To fully understand these new developments, however, students continue to need a strong foundation in the study of species interactions and how these interactions are assembled into food webs and other ecological networks. This new edition fulfills the book's original aims both as a much needed up-to-date and accessible introduction to modern community ecology and in identifying the important questions that are yet to be answered. This research-driven textbook introduces state-of-the-art community ecology to a new generation of students, adopting reasoned and balanced perspectives on as yet unresolved issues. Community Ecology is suitable for advanced undergraduates, graduate students, and researchers seeking a broad up-to-date coverage of ecological concepts at the community level. Theoretical Approaches to Community Ecology

R.I.C. Publications Pty, Limited, 2001 Environmental Science Michael L. McKinney, Robert M. Schoch, Logan Yonavjak, 2012 Updated with the latest data from the field Environmental Science Systems and Solutions Fifth Edition explains the concepts and teaches the skills needed to understand multi-faceted and often very complex environmental issues. The authors present the arguments, rebuttals, evidence, and counterevidence from many sides of the debate. The Fifth Edition includes new Science in Action boxes which feature cutting edge case studies and essays contributed by subject matter experts that highlight recent and ongoing research within environmental science. With an Earth as a system approach, the text continues to emphasize Earth's intricate web of interactions among the biosphere, atmosphere, hydrosphere, and lithosphere, and how we are central components in these four spheres. This flexible, unbiased approach highlights 1) how matter cycles over time through Earth's systems, 2) the importance of the input-throughput-output processes that describe the global environment 3 how human activities and consumption modify Earth's systems 4 and the scientific economic and policy solutions to environmental problems Revised and updated to reflect current trends and statistics within Environmental Science New content on renewable energy solar panels and compact fluorescent light bulbs The latest information on Hydropower and the advantages and disadvantages of hydroelectric energy The companion website includes robust learning tools that enable students to make full use of today's learning technology Students will find practice quizzes virtual flashcards answers to in text questions and links to additional coverage regarding material discussed in the text Instructor Resources include an instructor's manual Test Bank PowerPoint Lecture Outline Slides and a PowerPoint Image Bank

Incoming Asteroid! Duncan Lunan, 2013-10-17 Incoming Asteroid is based on a project within ASTRA the Association in Scotland to Research into Astronautics to provide scientific answers to the question what would we do if we knew there was going to be an asteroid impact in ten years time or less Clearly there are many things humanity can do nothing about for example an unseen object traveling towards us so fast that we have no time to prepare or an object so large it may be unstoppable A realistic hazard model was decided upon and the scenario developed from that an incoming object about 1 kilometer in diameter in an orbit ranging from the outer rim of the Asteroid Belt to within that of Earth's Three basic possibilities are considered in this book The first is the deflection of the asteroid using remote probes along with a number of possible technologies to change the asteroid's course Second is the attempt of a manned mission in order to plant a propulsion system on the asteroid to push it into a different orbit Third is the nuclear option a last ditch attempt to break up and then disperse the asteroid using nuclear weapons A rather impractical combination of these second and third options were used as the plot of the popular 1998 Bruce Willis feature film Armageddon Although the cost of developing the technology needed to protect the Earth would be substantial there would certainly be spin off benefits These could eventually result in practical small scale atomic energy sources new propulsion systems that could make extraterrestrial mining within the solar system a possibility and other as yet unforeseen benefits And finally Incoming Asteroid considers the political implications how governments across the world should best react to the threat with a view to minimizing loss of life and in the weeks running up to the possible impact preventing panic in the population Guide for the Conversion of School Libraries Into Media Centres Jean-Pierre Delannoy,1977 UNESCO pub Expert report on how to transform a secondary school library into an information centre utilizing audiovisual aids includes five case studies One page bibliography illustrations questionnaires and references Ecological Law in Practice Geoffrey Garver,2024-10-21 This book presents a series of ecological law case studies designed to illustrate in concrete real world ways how ecological law would transform law in a range of diverse contexts Ecological law is an emerging and currently mostly theoretical discipline grounded in the need to shift away from anthropocentric legal systems which aim to promote economic growth using strong protections of private property regimes and state sovereignty to ecological approaches which emphasize ecocentrism the primacy of ecological limits and intragenerational intergenerational and interspecies fairness and justice The ecological law case studies presented in this book apply the theoretical principles and concepts of ecological law to diverse real world situations or activities in several countries and contexts Taking up a range of examples from Brazil Canada Germany Mexico Nigeria the United States and internationally the book demonstrates the concrete relevance of ecological law to contemporary sustainability challenges as it reveals pathways for overcoming real world challenges in the implementation and public acceptance of ecological law This book will appeal to researchers scholars and policy makers working in the area of environmental law and governance as well as others with relevant interests in sociolegal studies human geography political science and environmental studies
