The articles presented demonstrate the relevance of rigorously analyzing the computational hardness of the mathematical problems used as a base for cryptographic constructions. For instance, decoding problems related to algebraic codes and rewriting problems in non-abelian groups are explored with cryptographic applications in mind. New results on the algebraic properties or symmetric cryptographic tools are also presented, moving ahead in the understanding of their security properties. In addition, post-quantum constructions for digital signatures and key exchange are explored in this Special Issue, exemplifying how and how not group theory may be used for developing robust cryptographic tools to withstand quantum attacks.

Copyright Office, 1974 Stability and Periodic Solutions of Ordinary and Functional Differential Equations T. A. Burton, 1985-12-19. In this book, we study theoretical and practical aspects of computing methods for mathematical modelling of nonlinear systems. A number of computing techniques are considered, such as methods of operator approximation with any given accuracy, operator interpolation techniques including a non-Lagrange interpolation method of system representation subject to constraints associated with concepts of causality, memory, and stationarity; methods of system representation with an accuracy that is the best within a given class of models; methods of covariance matrix estimation; methods for low-rank matrix approximations; hybrid methods based on a combination of iterative procedures and best operator approximation; and methods for information compression and filtering under condition that a filter model should satisfy restrictions associated with causality and different types of memory. As a result, the book represents a blend of new methods in general computational analysis and specific but also generic techniques for study of systems theory and its particular branches, such as optimal filtering and information compression. Best operator approximation, Non-Lagrange interpolation, Generic Karhunen-Loève transform, Generalised low-rank matrix approximation, Optimal data compression, Optimal nonlinear filtering.
