Rise Press Beauty, Violence, Representation Lisa A. Dickson, Maryna Romanets, 2014-05-09 This volume explores the relationship among beauty violence and representation in a broad range of artistic and cultural texts including literature visual art theatre film and music Charting diversifying interests in the subject of violence and beauty dealing with the multiple inflections of these questions and representing a spectrum of voices the volume takes its place in a growing body of recent critical work that takes violence and representation as its object This collection offers a unique opportunity however to address a significant gap in the critical field for it seeks to interrogate specifically the nexus or interface between beauty and violence While other texts on violence make use of regimes of representation as their subject matter and consider the effects of aestheticization beauty as a critical category is conspicuously absent Furthermore the book aims to rehabilitate beauty implicitly conceptualized as politically or ethically regressive by postmodern anti aesthetics cultural positions and further facilitate its come back into critical discourse American Media and the Memory of World War II Debra

Ramsay, 2015-02-11 For three generations of Americans World War II has been a touchstone for the understanding of conflict and of America's role in global affairs But if World War II helped shape the perception of war for Americans American media in turn shape the understanding and memory of World War II Concentrating on key popular films television series and digital games from the last two decades this book explores the critical influence World War II continues to exert on a generation of Americans born over thirty years after the conflict ended It explains how the war was configured in the media of the wartime generation and how it came to be repurposed by their progeny the Baby Boomers In doing so it identifies the framework underpinning the mediation of World War II memory in the current generation's media and develops a model that provides insight into the strategies of representation that shape the American perspective of war in general International

Perspectives on Shojo and Shojo Manga Masami Toku, 2015-06-05 This collaborative book explores the artistic and aesthetic development of shojo or girl manga and discusses the significance of both shojo manga and the concept of shojo or girl culture It features contributions from manga critics educators and researchers from both manga's home country of Japan and abroad looking at shojo and shojo manga's influence both locally and globally Finally it presents original interviews of shojo manga ka or artists who discuss their work and their views on this distinct type of popular visual culture      Critical Animal and Media Studies Núria Almiron,Matthew Cole,Carrie P. Freeman,2015-10-14 This book aims to put the speciesism debate and the treatment of non human animals on the agenda of critical media studies and to put media studies on the agenda of animal ethics researchers Contributors examine the convergence of media and animal ethics from theoretical philosophical discursive social constructionist and political economic perspectives The book is divided into three sections foundations representation and responsibility outlining the different disciplinary approaches application to media studies and covering how non human animals and the relationship between humans and non humans are represented by the mass media concluding with suggestions for how the media as a major producer of cultural norms and values related to non human animals and how we treat them might improve such representations      Serialization in Popular Culture Rob

Allen,Thijs van den Berg,2014-05-23 From prime time television shows and graphic novels to the development of computer game expansion packs the recent explosion of popular serials has provoked renewed interest in the history and economics of serialization as well as the impact of this cultural form on readers viewers and gamers In this volume contributors literary scholars media theorists and specialists in comics graphic novels and digital culture examine the economic narratological and social effects of serials from the nineteenth to the twenty first century and offer some predictions of where the form will go from here      Neuroscience and Media Michael Grabowski,2014-12-05 This volume explores how advances in the fields of evolutionary neuroscience and cognitive psychology are informing media studies with a better understanding of how humans perceive think and experience emotion within mediated environments The book highlights interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary approaches to the production and reception of cinema television the Internet and other forms of mediated communication that take into account new understandings of how the embodied brain senses and interacts with its symbolic environment Moreover as popular media shape perceptions of the promises and limits of brain science contributors also examine the representation of neuroscience and cognitive psychology within mediated culture      A Cultural Approach to Emotional Disorders E. Deidre Pribram,2016-01-13 In her latest contribution to the growing field of emotion studies Deidre Pribram makes a compelling argument for why culturalist approaches to the study of emotional disorders continue to be eschewed even as the sociocultural and historical study of mental illness flourishes The author ties this phenomenon to a tension between two fundamentally different approaches to emotion an individualist approach which regards emotions as the property of the individual whether biologically or psychologically and a culturalist approach which regards emotions as collective social processes with distinctive histories and meanings that work to produce particularized subjects While she links a strong preference for the individualist construct in Western culture to the rise of the psychological and psychiatric disciplines at the turn of the twentieth century Pribram also engages with a diverse set of case studies tied to psychological and aesthetic discourses on emotions These range from Van Gogh s status as emotionally disordered to the public emotional aesthetics of 19th century melodrama to the diagnostic categories of the DSMs and the fear of globalizing emotional disorders in the 21st century This genuinely interdisciplinary approach makes for a text with potential application in a wide range of disciplines within cultural studies including sociocultural and historical analysis of psychiatry and psychology gender theory subject and identity theory popular culture studies and history and theory of the arts      Biopolitical Media Allen Meek, 2015-11-19 This book presents an historical account of media and catastrophe that engages with theories of biopolitics in the work of Michel Foucault Giorgio Agamben Michael Hardt Antonio Negri and others It explains how responses to catastrophe in media and cultural criticism over the past 150 years are embedded in biological conceptions of life and death contamination and immunity race and species Mediated catastrophe is often understood today in terms of collective memory and according to therapeutic or redemptive accounts of trauma In contrast to these approaches this book emphasizes the use of media to record archive and analyze physical appearance and movement to capture viewer attention through shock to monitor and control bodies in economies of production and consumption to enmesh social relations in information networks and situate subjects in discourses of victimhood immunity survival and resilience Chapters are focused on historical case studies of early photography Nazi propaganda colonial stereotypes Hiroshima the Holocaust the Cold War and the war on terror      The Borders of Subculture Alexander Dhoest, Steven Malliet, Jacques Haers, Barbara Segaert, 2015-06-05 This book aims to revisit the notion of subculture for the 21st century reinterpreting it and extending its scope On the one hand the notion of resistance is redefined and applied to contemporary practices of cultural production and entrepreneurship On the other hand contributors reconsider the connection of subcultures to everyday culture exploring more mainstream forms of cultural production and consumption across a wider range of social groups As a consequence this book extends the scope to look beyond the white male adolescent urban cultures identified with earlier subcultural studies Contributors also examine fusions and crossovers between Western and non Western cultural practices      Popular Culture in Africa Stephanie Newell, Onookome Okome, 2013-11-12 This volume marks the 25th anniversary of Karin Barber's ground breaking article Popular Arts in Africa which stimulated new debates about African popular culture and its defining categories Focusing on performances audiences social contexts and texts contributors ask how African popular cultures contribute to the formation of an episteme With chapters on theater Nollywood films blogging and music and sports discourses as well as on popular art forms urban and youth cultures and gender and sexuality the book highlights the dynamism and complexity of contemporary popular cultures in sub Saharan Africa Focusing on the streets of Africa especially city streets where different cultures and cultural personalities meet the book asks how the category of the people is identified and interpreted by African culture producers politicians religious leaders and by the people themselves The book offers a nuanced strongly historicized perspective in which African popular cultures are regarded as vehicles through which we can document ordinary people's vitality and responsiveness to political and social transformations      Motherhood in the Media Barbara Barnett, 2016-02-19 This book examines contemporary media stories about women who kill their children. By analyzing media texts, motherhood blogs, and journalistic interviews, the book seeks to understand better maternal violence and the factors that lead women to harm their children. The central thesis of this book is that media practices have changed dramatically during the past 50 years, as has society's views on appropriate feminine behavior, yet definitions of characteristics of good mothers remain largely defined by 1950s sitcoms, Victorian ideals, and Christian theology. The book contends that in spite of media saturation in American society and the media's increased opportunities to tell complex and nuanced stories, news media narratives continue to situate maternal violence as rare, unfathomable, and unpredictable. The news media's shift in focus from public service to profit-making industry has encouraged superficial coverage of maternal violence as reporters look for stories that sell, not stories that explain. Motherhood blogs, in contrast, offer an opportunity for women to tell their own stories about motherhood based on experience. Interviews with journalists offer insights into how the structure of their jobs dictates media coverage of this intimate form of violence.

The Emotional Life of Postmodern Film Pansy Duncan, 2015-11-19 Emotion and Postmodernism: Is it possible to imagine an odder couple, stranger bedfellows, less bad company? The Emotional Life of Postmodern Film brings this unlikely pair into sustained dialogue, arguing that the interdisciplinary body of scholarship currently emerging under the rubric of affect theory may be unexpectedly enriched by an encounter with the field that has become its critical other. Across a series of radical re-evaluations of canonical postmodern texts, from Fredric Jameson's Postmodernism to David Cronenberg's Crash, Duncan shows that the same postmodern archive that has proven resistant to strongly subject-based and object-oriented emotions like anger and sadness proves all too congenial to a series of idiosyncratic, borderline emotions: from knowingness, fascination, and bewilderment to boredom and euphoria. The analysis of these emotions, in turn, promises to shake up scholarly consensus on two key counts. On the one hand, it will restructure our sense of the place and role of emotion in a critical enterprise that has long cast it as the stodgy, subjective sister of a supposedly more critically interesting and politically productive affect. On the other, it will transform our perception of postmodernism as a now historical aesthetic and theoretical moment, teaching us to acknowledge more explicitly and to name more clearly the emotional life that energizes it.

Social Memory Technology Karen Worcman, Joanne Garde-Hansen, 2016-02-19 Memory is a fundamental aspect of being and becoming, intimately entwined with space, time, place, landscape, emotion, imagination, and identity. Memory studies is a burgeoning field of enquiry, drawing from a range of social science, arts, and humanities disciplines, including human geography, sociology, cultural studies, media studies, heritage, and museum studies, psychology, and history. This book is a critically theorised, practical exposition of how media and technology are used to make memories for museums, archives, social movements, and community projects, looking at specific cases in the UK and Brazil where the authors have put these theories into practice. The authors define the protocol they present as social memory technology. Critically, this book is about learning to deal with our pasts and learning new methods of connecting our pasts across cultures toward a shared understanding and application of memory technologies

Media Education for a Digital Generation Julie Frechette, Rob Williams, 2015-10-14 Media education for digital citizenship is predicated upon the ability to access analyze evaluate and produce media content and communication in a variety of forms While many media literacy approaches overemphasize the end goal of accessing digital media content through the acquisition of various technology software apps and analytics this book argues that the goals for comprehensive and critical digital literacy require grasping the means through which communication is created deployed used and shared regardless of which tools or platforms are used for meaning making and social interaction Drawing upon the intersecting matrices of digital literacy and media literacy the volume provides a framework for developing critical digital literacies by exploring the necessary skills and competencies for engaging students as citizens of the digital world

Reviving Gramsci Marco Briziarelli, Susana Martínez Guillem, 2016-02-05 Engaging debates within cultural studies media and communication studies and critical theory this book addresses whether Gramscian thought continues to be relevant for social and cultural analysis in particular when examining times of crisis and social change The book is motivated by two intertwined but distinct purposes first to show the privileged and fruitful link between a Gramscian Theory of Communication and a Communicative Theory of Gramsci second to explore the ways in which such a Gramscian perspective can help us interpret and explain different forms of political activism in the twenty first century such as Occupy in the US Indignados in Spain or Movimento Cinque Stelle in Italy

Beauty, Violence, Representation Lisa A. Dickson, Maryna Romanets, 2014-05-09 This volume explores the relationship among beauty violence and representation in a broad range of artistic and cultural texts including literature visual art theatre film and music Charting diversifying interests in the subject of violence and beauty dealing with the multiple inflections of these questions and representing a spectrum of voices the volume takes its place in a growing body of recent critical work that takes violence and representation as its object This collection offers a unique opportunity however to address a significant gap in the critical field for it seeks to interrogate specifically the nexus or interface between beauty and violence While other texts on violence make use of regimes of representation as their subject matter and consider the effects of aestheticization beauty as a critical category is conspicuously absent Furthermore the book aims to rehabilitate beauty implicitly conceptualized as politically or ethically regressive by postmodern anti aesthetics cultural positions and further facilitate its come back into critical discourse The Middle Class in Emerging Societies Leslie L. Marsh, Hongmei Li, 2015-10-23 This volume examines the discursive construction of the meanings and lifestyle practices of the middle class in the rapidly transforming economies of Asia Latin America Africa and the Middle East focusing on the social political and cultural implications at local and global levels While drawing a comparative analysis of what it means to be middle class in these different locations the essays offer a connective understanding of the middle class phenomenon in emerging market economies and lay the groundwork for future research on emerging transitional societies The book addresses three key dimensions the discursive creation of the middle class the construction of the cultural identity through consumption practices and lifestyle choices and the social political and cultural consequences related to globalization and neoliberalism Embodied Metaphors in Film, Television, and Video Games Kathrin Fahlenbrach, 2015-10-05 In cognitive research metaphors have been shown to help us imagine complex abstract or invisible ideas concepts or emotions Contributors to this book argue that metaphors occur not only in language but in audio visual media well This is all the more evident in entertainment media which strategically sell their products by addressing their viewers immediate reflexive understanding through pictures sounds and language This volume applies cognitive metaphor theory CMT to film television and video games in order to analyze the embodied aesthetics and meanings of those moving images
