The Migration Question Leila Simona Talani, Matilde Rosina, 2025-06-12 This authoritative book proposes a fresh perspective on international migration offering decisive answers to the big questions and dismantling the main myths surrounding one of the most salient issues of today's global politics Who are these migrants Do they steal our jobs Can we help them in their home countries Do border controls improve security Are open borders desirable Leila Simona Talani and Matilde Rosina address these issues and more in their deeply researched study of migration into both Europe and the United States Assessing globalisation's impact on international migration the authors find that it is virtually impossible to stop contemporary flows from the Global South to North In this context policies designed to control limit or deter immigration simply transform some or all regular migrants into irregular ones exacerbating insecurity for citizens of the receiving state and criminalising the migrants Through empirical research including original surveys and interviews Talani and Rosina demonstrate conclusively that the only solution to this short circuit world of securitisation and criminalisation is for the Global North to open its doors to the migrants already inevitably coming through particularly since the evidence shows that regularising migration is a positive sum game in economic social and security terms

Masculinities, Sexualities and Child Sexual Abuse Anne Cossins, 2021-08-04 Why is child sexual abuse committed primarily by men and male adolescents unlike other forms of child abuse Is child sex offending rather than being a deviant masculine sexual practice related to normative masculine practices that is practices structured on dynamic and changing relations of power Using a practice based sociological approach the relationship between masculinities sexualities and child sexual abuse is analysed and the power powerlessness theory is developed to explain the predominantly male problem of child sex offending The theory postulates that because the social construction of masculinities involves the construction of dynamic and changing relations of power between men men's lives are characterised by a combination of power and powerlessness The book argues that an offender's experiences of powerlessness as a result of his relationships with other men is the key to understanding child sex offending since sexuality is a key social practice for the alleviation of experiences of powerlessness and for establishing relations of power with other men In particular the theory argues that a man's particular attachment to the link between sexuality and experiences of masculinity and power will be a key factor for determining how he does sex and whom he chooses as a sexual partner In the final chapter the theory is tested through a re analysis of offender interviews

The International Criminal Court and the Responsibility to Protect Stefano Marinelli, 2022-07-28 This book examines the parallel development and interaction between the International Criminal Court ICC and the doctrine of the Responsibility to Protect RtoP assessing this relationship over time and through case studies of Darfur Libya and Syria The similarities and connections between the doctrine and the Court have been highlighted by UN bodies the organs of the Court and scholars yet their relationship and common impact on international law have been less explored This book fills this gap in presenting an overview of how the development of RtoP and the ICC affect various branches of international law The research shows that while the doctrine and the Court experienced significant implementation problems in their first decades of life they nonetheless have the potential to contribute to the historical evolution of international law in combining their values of promoting international peace and protecting human rights This interdisciplinary study will be useful for scholars of international law and international relations It will also be beneficial to persons working for international organisations and for civil society organisations focused on the activity of the ICC and on the development of RtoP The Bookseller ,1895

Oleson, 2022-01-04 In this eye opening critique Ronald Kramer and James C Oleson interrogate the promises of crime science and target our misplaced faith in technology as the solution to criminality This book deconstructs crime science s most prominent manifestations biological actuarial security and environmental sciences Rather than holding the technological keys to crime s resolution crime sciences inscribe criminality on particular bodies and constitute a primary resource for the conceptualizations of crime that many societies take for granted Crime science may strive to reduce crime but in doing so it reproduces power asymmetries creates profit motives undermines important legal concepts instantiates questionable practices and forces open new vistas of deviant
