It is important to note that the results of this study are preliminary and require further research to confirm the findings. The study was limited by the sample size and the self-reported nature of the data. Future research should include a larger, more diverse sample and use objective measures of well-being and life satisfaction. Additionally, the study did not control for other factors that may influence well-being, such as income, education, and social support. Therefore, the results should be interpreted with caution and used as a starting point for further research.
