Fernandez-Jalvo,Peter Andrews,2016-07-28 The aim of the atlas is to provide images of taphonomic modifications making it as comprehensive as possible with evidence presently available This volume is intended both as a field guide for identifying taphonomic modifications in the field and for use in the laboratory when collections of fossils are being analyzed Images in the book are a combination of scanning electron micrographs regular photographs cross sections of bones and line drawings and graphs By providing good quality illustrations of taphonomic modifications with links between similar types of modification the atlas provides a reference source for identifying the agents responsible for the modifications the processes by which they were formed and the potential bias introduced by the processes The authors also aim to emphasize on the directions they consider taphonomic studies should be headed Firstly we should seek to quantify the degree of bias introduced into a fossil fauna and to take account of this bias before interpreting the palaeoecology of the fossil site Secondly we should recognize that taphonomic modifications increase the information encoded in fossils by identifying perimortem and postmortem contexts This provides a more dynamic and realistic view of the past

How Things Shape the Mind Lambros Malafouris, 2016-02-12 An account of the different ways in which things have become cognitive extensions of the human body from prehistory to the present An increasingly influential school of thought in cognitive science views the mind as embodied extended and distributed rather than brain bound or all in the head This shift in perspective raises important questions about the relationship between cognition and material culture posing major challenges for philosophy cognitive science archaeology and anthropology In How Things Shape the Mind Lambros Malafouris proposes a cross disciplinary analytical framework for investigating the ways in which things have become cognitive extensions of the human body Using a variety of examples and case studies he considers how those ways might have changed from earliest prehistory to the present Malafouris's Material Engagement Theory definitively adds materiality the world of things artifacts and material signs into the cognitive equation His account not only questions conventional intuitions about the boundaries and location of the human mind but also suggests that we rethink classical archaeological assumptions about human cognitive evolution
