

ASSETS

Assets are resources owned by a business that have economic value. They are the result of investments made by the business or its owners. Assets are recorded on the balance sheet and are classified into current assets and non-current assets.

- Current Assets: These are assets that are expected to be converted into cash or used up within one year. Examples include cash, accounts receivable, inventory, and prepaid expenses.
- Non-current Assets: These are assets that are not expected to be converted into cash or used up within one year. Examples include property, plant, and equipment, and intangible assets like patents and trademarks.

Assets are measured in terms of their fair value, which is the price that would be received for an asset in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.

LIABILITIES

Liabilities are obligations or debts that a business owes to other parties. They are the result of borrowing money or credit from others. Liabilities are recorded on the balance sheet and are classified into current liabilities and non-current liabilities.

- Current Liabilities: These are liabilities that are expected to be settled within one year. Examples include accounts payable, short-term debt, and accrued liabilities.
- Non-current Liabilities: These are liabilities that are not expected to be settled within one year. Examples include long-term debt and deferred tax liabilities.

Liabilities are measured in terms of their fair value, which is the price that would be received for a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.

CONTRIBUTED CAPITAL

Contributed Capital represents the amount of capital that has been contributed to the business by its owners. It is a component of equity and is recorded on the balance sheet. Contributed capital is further divided into common stock and preferred stock.

- Common Stock: This represents the ownership interest in the business. It is the most common type of equity and is held by the majority of the business's owners.
- Preferred Stock: This represents a type of equity that has certain rights and privileges, such as the right to receive dividends before common stock. It is often used to attract investment without giving up control of the business.

RETAINED EARNINGS

Retained Earnings represent the portion of a company's profits that are retained within the company rather than being distributed to the owners as dividends. They are a component of equity and are recorded on the balance sheet. Retained earnings are used to fund the company's operations and growth.

- Accumulated Profits: This represents the total amount of profits that have been retained by the company since its inception. It is the sum of all profits that have been added to retained earnings.
- Dividends or Drawings: This represents the amount of profits that have been distributed to the owners. It is subtracted from accumulated profits to arrive at the current retained earnings balance.

EQUITY

Equity represents the ownership interest in a business. It is the sum of all assets minus all liabilities. Equity is recorded on the balance sheet and is classified into contributed capital and retained earnings.

- Contributed Capital: This represents the amount of capital that has been contributed to the business by its owners. It is the most common type of equity and is held by the majority of the business's owners.
- Retained Earnings: This represents the portion of a company's profits that are retained within the company rather than being distributed to the owners as dividends. They are used to fund the company's operations and growth.
